Research on Motivation in Education: Goals and cognitions Russell Ames, Carole Ames, 1984      Selbstwirksamkeit und Motivationsprozesse in Bildungsinstitutionen Matthias Jerusalem, 2002      Motivating Students to Learn Jere E.

Brophy, 2010-05-26 Written specifically for teachers this book offers a wealth of research based principles for motivating students to learn Its focus on motivational principles rather than motivation theorists or theories leads naturally into discussion of specific classroom strategies Throughout the book these principles and strategies are tied to the realities of contemporary schools and classrooms The author employs an eclectic approach to motivation that shows how to effectively integrate the use of extrinsic and intrinsic strategies Guidelines are provided for adapting motivational principles to group and individual differences and for doing repair work with students who have become discouraged or disaffected learners

Capital theory the belief in intrinsic motivation the voucher movement and the accountability reform And finally it outlines two alternative solutions for educational problems which stem from the essential lack of learning motivation This book is an invitation to resurrect the tradition of asking fundamental questions about education Improving what is essentially a flawed institution can take us only so far the author is inviting the reader to go further Journal of Developmental Education

,1991 A Multidimensional Approach to Achievement Validation Richard J. Shavelson,Robert W. Roeser,2018-12-07 Two of the most interesting conceptual turns in Richard E Snow s thinking called for a broadening of the concept of aptitude to include not only cognitive processes but also affective and cognitive processes as essential for understanding academic performance and learning and an exploration of the possibility that individual differences in learning and achievement emerge from dynamic person situation transactions that unfold over time The articles in this special issue address these big ideas through the lens of a study of high school students achievement in science Developmental Science Marc H.

Bornstein,Michael E. Lamb,2024-10-04 Developmental Science An Advanced Textbook is the most complete and up to date advanced introduction to the field available today Since its initial publication the key purpose of this advanced textbook has been to furnish inclusive developmental perspectives on all theoretical methodological and substantive areas in developmental science This eighth edition is no exception as it continues to underscore the dynamic and exciting status of contemporary developmental science In this eighth edition Marc H Bornstein and Michael E Lamb have invited international experts to prepare original comprehensive and topical treatments of all major areas of developmental science they are masterfully woven into a single coherent volume The substantive chapters cover essentials of their main topics with close attention paid to cultural lifespan and applied perspectives Many chapters in this eighth edition are new and those carried forward from the seventh edition have been extensively revised This volume therefore represents faithfully the current status of scholarly efforts in all aspects of developmental science Ideal for advanced undergraduate and introductory graduate courses this advanced textbook is accompanied by two sets of supplementary materials pedagogy files for students include chapter outlines things to think about before reading the chapters glossaries and suggested readings and ancillary files for instructors include a PowerPoint deck of tables and figures classroom assignments essay questions multiple choice questions and short answer questions Adaptive Learning Environments Marlene Jones,Philip H. Winne,2012-12-06 Adaptive Learning Environments ALEs can be viewed as the intersection of two traditionally distinct areas of research instructional science and computer science They encompass intelligent tutoring systems interactive learning environments and situated learning environments There is increasing interest in effective instructional systems from education industry military and government sectors Given recent advances in hardware architecture and reduction of hardware costs the time is right to define the next steps in research and development of ALEs This book is an outgrowth of the presentations and discussions that took place at the NATO Advanced Study Institute held at the University of Calgary in July 1990 It contains chapters from both researchers in instructional science and researchers in computer science on the following topics Systems and architectures for instruction Representing curriculum and designing instructional tasks Environments to support learning Diagnosing students learning and adjusting plans for instruction Models of students metacognition motivation and learning strategies Student system interactions The book contains introductions critiques of each pair of chapters and a final chapter discusses the synthesis of instructional science and computer science

Journal ,2006 The Evolution of Students' Understanding of Mathematical Induction Stacy A. Brown,2003 This dissertation examines how students understandings of proof by mathematical induction evolved during an 8 week teaching experiment The design of the experiment was informed by a theoretical perspective that is a synthesis of two complementary theories the Theory of Didactical Situations Brousseau 1997 and the Necessity Principle Harel s 1998 theory of intellectual need This study provides an account of how the proof schemes and ways of understanding of a cohort of students progressed through three stages pre transformational restrictive transformational and transformational as they worked through a series of proof by mathematical induction appropriate tasks It also reports on the various didactical and epistemological obstacles the students encountered at each stage Harel s 1998 Dual Assertion and Harel and Sowder s 1998 proof schemes are used to explain the students ways of acting in terms of two coexisting schemes the students ways of thinking and ways of understanding The results of the study indicate that the students conceptions of what constitutes a convincing argument changed in response to a series of shifts in the students understandings of generality Publications University of Michigan. Institute for Social Research, Interest and Special Education John G. Freeman,1998 Zeitschrift für
