The purpose of this set is to improve service learning research and practice through strengthening its theoretical base. Contributing authors include both well known and emerging service learning and community engagement scholars as well as scholars from other fields. The authors bring theoretical perspectives from a wide variety of disciplines to bear as they critically review past research, describe assessment methods and instruments, develop future research agendas and consider implications of theory based research for enhanced practice. This set constitutes a rich resource that suggests new approaches to conceptualizing, understanding, implementing, assessing and studying service learning. Each chapter offers recommendations for future research.

Research on Service Learning: Conceptual Frameworks and Assessment will be of interest to both new and veteran service learning instructors seeking to enhance their practice by integrating what has been learned in terms of teaching, assessment and research. Staff and faculty who are responsible for promoting and supporting service learning at higher education institutions, evaluating community service programs and working with faculty to develop research on service learning will also find this volume helpful. For scholars and graduate students reviewing and conducting research related to service learning, this book is a comprehensive resource and a knowledge base about the processes and outcomes of innovative pedagogies such as service learning that will enable them to locate their own work in an expanding and deepening arena of inquiry.

Both volumes open with chapters focused on defining the criteria for quality research. Volume 2A then begins with research related to students, comprising chapters that focus on cognitive processes, academic learning, civic learning, personal development and intercultural competence. The concluding faculty section presents chapters on faculty development, faculty motivation and faculty learning. Volume 2B addresses community development and the role of nonprofit organizations in service learning. It then focusses on institutions, examining the institutionalization of service learning, engaged departments and institutional leadership. Book Description: In Service Learning Perspectives: Goals and Outcomes

The authors examine samples of experimental learning programs in higher education to better understand the influential drivers of service learning pedagogy as well as potential barriers that hinder service learning adoption in higher education settings. Service learning is a structured learning experience that links academic course work and community service, stressing reciprocal learning and reflective practices to address community-identified needs while engaging and developing students' citizenship skills and critical thinking for social change. This book discusses how service learning projects impact students, faculty, higher education institutions, and service learning clients through domestic and international experiences. The research methods demonstrated throughout this text include survey research, mixed methods research, literature reviews, quasi-experiments, and case studies. Chapters within this book evaluate the impact of service learning projects through learning competency outcome measures or reflection analyses. We believe the empirical data and knowledge provided through this book will advance service learning research and support the adoption/integration of service learning opportunities in higher education settings. Moreover, we hope that future research will expand upon lessons provided in this book to continue to build the service learning knowledge base for faculty, students, and institutions.

Part I of this book provides a brief literature review of overcoming service learning barriers in higher education, including discussion of online service learning challenges and strategies. To offer an interdependent analysis of the service learning approach, Parts II, III, and IV include case studies grouped by what may be considered the three primary stakeholder groups: Faculty, Students, and Institutions. Part II: Faculty will provide detailed analyses of faculty, both tenure-track and off-tenure-track, encountered issues and considerations regarding the integration of service learning projects with the course curriculum. Part III: Students will discuss learning reflections and personal development outcomes of students who participate in service learning opportunities. Part IV: Institutions will examine the partnerships between the higher education program and stakeholder communities, both in the domestic and international context. Chapter authors include professors from public/private domestic and international universities with experience in student learning and experimental learning. These professors represent disciplines in public health, communication science, and disorders, psychology, community engagement, and education, and have incorporated service learning in their teaching and instruction. It is with sincerity that we express our appreciation to these professionals for their passion and commitment to advance our knowledge base of service learning pedagogy and research in higher education Target Audience Faculty members in higher education settings community engaged scholars and researchers as well as professional and community practitioners who are interested in service learning pedagogy community based participatory research opportunities and building engaged community campus partnerships with higher education institutions
