Serving Class Masculinity And The Feminisation Of Domestic Service In Tanzania:

Serving Class Janet M. Bujra, 2000 This is a book about contradictions About the men who are better at housework than women and still retain their view of themselves as real men In colonial Tanganyika when housework for some was transformed into wage labour for others the only available labour force was predominantly male so men became domestic servants even nursemaids to babies Even today men are preferred over women as servants Paradoxically these were also militant domestics in an occupation usually characterised by passivity and inability to organise A wave of strikes involving domestic workers swept East Africa in the 1950s 60s Given this unusual militancy why did domestic servants become so politically passive after independence And equally contradictory how did an institution so sharply expressing class differences persist in a period when the Tanzanian state was proclaiming socialism and the end of class exploitations Exploring the institution of domestic service this book discloses processes of postcolonial class formation both as exploitation and cultural elaboration It also uncovers gender struggles amongst workers and those who employ them Colonization and Domestic Service Victoria K. Haskins, Claire Lowrie, 2014-12-05 This book brings together two key themes that have not been addressed together previously in any sustained way domestic service and colonization Existing studies of domestic service rarely make mention of colonization but colonization offers a rich and exciting new paradigm for analysing the phenomenon of domestic labour by non family workers paid and otherwise Scholars in diverse fields and disciplines here share new and stimulating insights on the various connections between domestic employment and the processes of colonization both past and present in a range of original essays Masters and servants Claire Lowrie, 2016-05-01 Illustrates the centrality of domestic politics to colonial rule and the ways in which mastery over servants was a key expression of colonial power challenges conventional positions in the debate on the appropriate regulation of informalized labour This book will be of interest to students and scholars of global political economy international relations labour studies and development studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Islamic and Caste Knowledge Practices Among Haalpulaaren in Senegal Roy Dille, 2004 This book examines in historical perspective the hitherto little studied relationship between Islam and caste among the Haalpulaaren of Senegal The Islamic uprising of the 1770s which established a class of Islamic clerics in positions of authority in the Senegal river valley had long term consequences for the social relations between clerics and caste groups The book examines how at different historical junctures attempts were made to negotiate the equalitarian claims of a universalist faith with the expression of social differentiation lying at the heart of caste inequality While the existing literature focuses on those who established Islam within the region this present work provides insights into how marginalised artisans poets and musicians understood themselves and how they responded to a faith which had become the cornerstone of social prestige and status It analyses the knowledge practices of clerics and of specialised craft groups arguing that they are crucial for our understanding of social and cultural distinction This involves a synthesis of historical sources and ethnography and provides an innovative approach to the study of religious identity and specialist practitioners

The Politics of Neoliberal Democracy in Africa Usman A. Tar, 2009 Since the late 1980s the changing dynamic of global development has driven the tide of democratic expansion in the developing world In Africa western donors have sought to impose neo liberal visions of socio economic and political institution building spreading political reforms and economic liberalisation with far reaching consequences Associated with external interventions but also sometimes conflicting with them are internal protests against authoritarianism which have problematically reinforced and or undermined the donor agenda for democratic reform Here Usman Tar questions the assumption that Africa was lacking the essential components for a spontaneous transition to democracy He explores the dynamic but contradictory links between external and internal dimensions of neo liberal democratic expansion in Africa focusing on Nigeria Tar dissects the struggles for democracy and for democratic policy and practice in a country with rich economic potential but a troubled political dispensation
