Severn And Somme And Wars Embers:

Severn & Somme Ivor Gurney, 1917 Collected Critical Writings Geoffrey Hill, 2009 The Collected Critical Writings gathers more than forty years of Hill's published criticism in a revised final form and also adds much new work. It will serve as the canonical volume of criticism by Hill, the pre-eminent poet-critic whom A. N. Wilson has called probably the best writer alive in verse or in prose. In his criticism Hill ranges widely investigating both poets including Jonson, Dryden, Hopkins, Whitman, Eliot and Yeats and prose writers such as Tyndale, Clarendon, Hobbes, Burton, Emerson and F. H. Bradley. He is also steeped in the historical context, political, poetic and religious of the writers he studies. Most importantly, he brings texts and contexts into new and telling relations, neither reducing texts to the circumstances of their utterance nor imagining that they can float free of them. A number of the essays have already established themselves as essential reading on particular subjects such as his analysis of Vaughan's The Night, his discussion of Gurney's poetry and his critical account of The Oxford English Dictionary. Others confront the problems of language and the nature of value directly as in Our Word is Our Bond, Language Suffering and Value and Poetry and Value. In all his criticism Hill reveals literature to be an essential arena of civic intelligence.

Severn & Somme ; And, War's Embers Ivor Gurney, 1987 This is a pre-1923 historical reproduction that was curated for quality. Quality assurance was conducted on each of these books in an attempt to remove books with imperfections introduced by the digitization process. Though we have made best efforts, the books may have occasional errors that do not impede the reading experience. We believe this work is culturally important and have elected to bring the book back into print as part of our continuing commitment to the preservation of printed works worldwide.

The Clique, 1979 Art and Survival in First World War Britain Stuart Sillars, 1987 Heroes' Twilight: A Study of the Literature of the Great War Bernard Bergonzi, 1965 Meridian, 1989 Contrary Experiences Peter Münz, 2004

The First World War began with enthusiastic flag-waving, aggressive propaganda and poets who glorified the conflict with the abstract ideal of dying for one's patria. Mingled with the conviction of the enemy's war guilt and the belief in the justice of the own cause, these things formed a psychological amalgamation which caused a total blindness to what modern mass warfare would really mean. Only those in the eye of the storm soon came to regard the conduct of their political leaders and military commanders as a universal failure in leadership and responsibility. The soldiers who wrote about their bleak war experience produced a Literature of Disillusion. Borne out of the blood and corrugated soil of the Western Front, it expressed the front-fighter's estrangement from those who did not live through the war's horrors while it evoked the solid bond between those who did a bond that even embraced the enemy. But how, in particular, did the British soldier view his German opponent and what kind of experiences shaped his views? And how is the attitude to the foe processed in the Literature of the Western Front?

Contrary Experiences explores many examples of Great War writing that give an answer to these questions and assesses them against the background of both the anti German propaganda of the Home Front and the psychological requirements of trench warfare The findings not only demonstrate that the Great War despite its unprecedented horrors still offered room for moral behaviour They also prove Wilfred Owen s contention that the poetry is in the pity Four Decades of Poetry, 1890-1930, 1976 British Poets of the Great War Fred D.
