thousand years from 600 to 1600 CE the Java Sea was dominated by a ring of maritime kingdoms whose rulers engaged in long distance raiding trading and marriage alliances with one another And the Sun Pursued the Moon explores the economic political and symbolic processes by which early Makassar communities were incorporated into this regional system As successive empires like Srivijaya Kediri Majapahit and Melaka gained hegemony over the region they introduced different models of kingship in peripheral areas like the Makassar coast of South Sulawesi As each successive model of royal power gained currency it became embedded in local myth and ritual To better understand the relationship between symbolic knowledge and traditional royal authority in Makassar society Thomas Gibson draws on a wide range of sources and academic disciplines He shows how myth and ritual link practical forms of knowledge boat building navigation agriculture warfare to basic social categories such as gender and hereditary rank as well as to environmental celestial and cosmological phenomena He also shows how concrete historical agents have used this symbolic infrastructure to advance their own political and ideological purposes Gibson concludes by situating this material in relation to Islam and to life cycle rituals
