They describe Petrarch's intense love for Laura whom he first met in Avignon in 1327 and her effect on him after she died in 1348. The Portable Petrarch Francesco Petrarch, 2006 The Portable Petrarch features new translations of the essential writings of the poet who perfected the sonnet form

The Book as Artefact, Text and Border Anne Mette Hansen, 2005 Books do not just contain texts; books themselves are cultural artefacts which convey many meanings in their own right, meanings which interact with the texts they contain. Awareness of the many significances of books as cultural and textual objects reshapes the traditional disciplines of textual theory, analytic bibliography, codicology and palaeography while the advent of electronic books and digital methods for representing print books is introducing a new dimension to our understanding. Seven essays in this volume ranging over medieval Portuguese and Swedish manuscripts, eighteenth-century Icelandic editions, Australian playtexts, Thackeray and Anita Brookner and Stefan George consider these questions from the broad perspective of textual scholarship. Texts may exist on the borderland of word and not word or they may spring from borderlands of nation or culture or they may be considered from the margins of neighbouring disciplines. So readers must set the texts within contexts to see the play of text against border. Essays in this volume explore different texts against varying backgrounds: Pound's Cantos, Joyce's Ulysses, Trollope's An Eye for an Eye, Woolf's The Waves while essays by McGann and Lernout argue the dimensionality of text on the intersection of print and digital media. Implicit in all these essays is the contention that textual scholarship must influence literary interpretation. Two final essays focus directly on this in the cases of Melville's Moby Dick and Emily Dickinson's late fragments. An extensive reviews section completes this volume

He shows how subjectivity is shaken by its internal weakness once we move inside the structure of domination in politics, gender and race
