TOWARD LEGAL RIGHTS
FOR NATURAL OBJECTS

Christopher D. Stone

A brilliant essay proposing that natural objects such as trees, mountains, rivers and lakes should—like corporations—have legal rights. The U.S. Supreme Court's opinions in the controversial Mineral King-Disney-Sierra Club suit are included in full.

Foreword by Garrett Hardin

Should Trees Have Standing? Christopher D. Stone, 1975      Should Trees Have Standing? Christopher D. Stone, 2010 Previous edition 1996 has sub title and other essays on law morals and the environment first edition 1974 has subtitle towards legal rights for natural objects      Environmental Ethics and Forestry Peter C. List, 2000 During the past twenty five years North American forestry has received increasingly vigorous scrutiny Critics including the environmentalists environmental scientists representatives of public interest groups and many individual citizens have expressed concerns about forestry's basic assumptions and methods as well as its practical outcomes Criticism has centered on such issues as the exploitation of forests for timber production the reduction and fragmentation of old growth habitats the destruction of biodiversity the degradation of grasslands through grazing practices lack of government attention to recreation facilities silvicultural methods like clearcutting and the use of herbicides and pesticides the exportation of industrial forestry techniques to other parts of the world and the use of public monies to provide services for private resource companies as in the creation of logging roads This rising tide of public scrutiny has led many foresters to suspect that their contract with society to manage forests using their best professional judgment had been undermined Some of these professionals as well as some of their critics have begun to reexamine their old beliefs and to look for new ways of practicing forestry Part of this reflective process has entailed new directions in environmental ethics and environmental philosophy This reader brings together some of the new thinking in this area Here students of the applied environmental and natural resource sciences as well as the interested general reader will discover a rich sampling of writings in environmental ethics and philosophy as they apply to forestry Readings focus on basic ethical systems in forestry and forest management philosophical issues in forestry ethics codes of ethics in forestry and related natural resource sciences such as fisheries science and wildlife biology Aldo Leopold's land ethic in forestry ethical advocacy and whistleblowing in government resource agencies the ethics of new forestry ecoforestry and public debate in forestry as well as ethical issues in global forestry such as the responsibilities of forest corporations environmentalists and individual wood consumers This volume contains materials from the founders of forestry ethics such as Bernhard Fernow Gifford Pinchot John Muir and Aldo Leopold from such organizations as the Society of American Foresters the Wildlife Society the American Fisheries Society Forest Service Employees for Environmental Ethics and the Ecoforesters group in addition to writings by a variety of well known environmental philosophers and foresters including Holmes Rolston Robin Attfield Lawrence Johnson Michael McDonald Paul Wood James E. Coufal Raymond Craig Kristin Shrader Frechette Jeff DeBonis Jim L. Bowyer Alasdair Gunn Goug Gaigle Alan G. McQuillan Stephanie Kaza Alan Dregson Duncan Taylor and Kathleen Dean Moore Author note Peter C. List is Professor of Philosophy at Oregon State University where he teaches courses on environmental ethics ethical issues in the natural resource sciences and sustainable forestry He is the author of articles on Aldo Leopold's land ethic and co author of several articles on public attitudes about federal forests and forest management published in the Journal of Forestry and Society and Natural Resources Standing for Nature Dana Zartner, Fabian Cardenas, Mohammad Golam Sarwar, 2025-03-04 Rights of Nature laws are becoming a vital tool for addressing environmental injustice From New Zealand and India to Ecuador and Bolivia advocates have successfully secured legal rights for rivers forests and mountains Granting rights to nature has the potential to expand environmental protections strengthen indigenous rights promote sustainable development and alter how humans relate to nature Despite these promises rights of Nature laws have met with greater resistance in some countries than in others Standing for Nature offers advocates a blueprint for creating implementing and safeguarding rights of Nature laws This book looks closely at four examples New Zealand Colombia Bangladesh and the United States to explain why these laws have been successful in some places but not others Through this comparative exploration the authors highlight key strategies for advancing rights of Nature laws in the United States and around the world These lessons include an examination of different legal traditions to better understand which is the best form of law judicial legislative or regulatory for advocates to target how to ensure effective implementation once a law is passed and how to shift communal perspectives on the human Nature relationship for better implementation and enforcement This book is essential for environmental lawyers policy makers and advocates interested in gaining new knowledge and tools for championing rights of Nature laws in their own communities

International Law's Objects Jessie Hohmann, Daniel Joyce, 2018-12-20 International law's rich existence in the world can be illuminated by its objects International law is often developed conveyed and authorized through its objects and or their representation From the symbolic the regalia of the head of state and the symbols of sovereignty to the mundane a can of dolphin safe tuna certified as complying with international trade standards international legal authority can be found in the objects around us Similarly the practice of international law often relies on material objects or their image both as evidence satellite images bones of the victims of mass atrocities and to found authority for instance maps and charts This volume considers these questions firstly what might the study of international law through objects reveal What might objects rather than texts tell us about sources recognition of states construction of territory law of the sea or international human rights law Secondly what might this scholarly undertaking reveal about the objects as aims or projects of international law How do objects reveal or perhaps mask these aims and what does this tell us about the reasons some physical or material objects are foregrounded and others hidden or ignored Thirdly what objects icons and symbols preoccupy the profession and academy The personal selection of these objects by leading and emerging scholars worldwide will illuminate the contemporary and historical fascinations of international lawyers As a result the volume will be an important artefact itself an object in its own right capturing the mood of international law in a given moment and providing opportunity for reflection on these preoccupations By considering international law in the context of its material culture the authors offer a new theoretical perspective on the subject Property and the Constitution Janet McLean, 1999-08-23 Papers from a July 1998
