The View from the Border John Kotre, 2017-07-28 In this unique psychological study John Kotre provides some startling answers to the questions Catholics are now asking about those who abandon the church those who remain in it and those who attempt to create a new church within the church A detailed examination of the borderline between membership and ex membership in the Catholic Church as perceived by young adults reared within the Catholic educational system the book provides an impressive substantive contribution to understanding not only of the modern church but of organizational change in general Kotre himself a product of the Catholic educational system positions himself amid the tension and ambiguity between those who consider themselves in and those who consider themselves out of the Catholic Church He designed a systematic questionnaire covering four hundred variables about each subject s beliefs values perceptions of parents and reasons for being an insider or an outsider Using this questionnaire he individually interviewed one hundred graduates of Catholic colleges The surprising results of this important research show that in spite of sixteen years of formal Catholic education the attitudes of both the ins and the outs are not influenced by their Catholic upbringing so much as by their primary group relationships Recent research has shown that adult Americans are leaving their childhood faiths at ever increasing rates and that the Catholic Church is suffering the greatest losses Kotre s book offers an insightful psychological perspective on this dramatic movement It is a must read for professional psychologists and sociologists theologians and people interested in the psychology and sociology of religion

Practicing Catholic Daniel E. Pilarczyk, 1998-12 To be a practicing Catholic means more than just being a member of the Church Most fundamentally it means giving external expression to our faith So writes Archbishop Daniel E Pilarczyk in this sequel to his best selling Thinking Catholic St Anthony Messenger Press Being Catholic involves certain specific religious behaviors certain religious practices which arise from Catholic faith and tradition and which taken together constitute a way of being religious in a truly Catholic fashion a way of being members of the Church who are deliberately and consciously in touch with God in the context of the Church These are all essential components of professing Catholicism In Practicing Catholic Archbishop Pilarczyk reflects on those behaviors which express our faith and our membership in the Church that strengthen them and that proclaim them to others going to Mass on Sunday and Holy Days visiting the Blessed Sacrament doing penance and exercising self control raising children Catholic offering it up being in touch with Mary and the saints receiving the Sacraments praying getting married in the Church being an active member of a parish being willing to be different dying Catholic
