Practicing Community Class Culture And Power In An Urban Neighborhood:

Practicing Community Rhoda H. Halperin,1998 Cincinnatis East End river community has been home to generations of working class people This racially mixed community has roots that reach back as far as seven generations But the community is vulnerable Developers bulldoze raggedy but affordable housing to build upscale condos even as East Enders fight to preserve the community by participating in urban development planning controlled by powerful outsiders This book portrays how East Enders practice the preservation of community Drawing on more than six years of anthropological research and advocacy in the East End Rhoda Halperin argues for redefining community not merely as a place but as a set of culturally embedded and class marked practices that give priority to caring for children and the elderly procuring livelihood and providing support for family friends and neighbors These practices create the structures of community within the larger urban power structure Halperin uses different genres to weave the voices of East Enders throughout the book Poems and narratives offer poignant insights into the daily struggles against impersonal market forces that work against the struggle for livelihood This firsthand account questions commonly held assumptions about working class people In a fresh way it reveals the cultural construction of marginality from the viewpoints of both real East Enders and the urban power structure

Social Work Practice with Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender People is an invaluable resource for social workers and mental health professionals as well as for students and educators at all levels of experience Indigenous Communalism Carolyn Smith-Morris, 2019-10-18 Indigenous Communalism is a study of community building in Native communities and considers what models might be drawn from the strategies of Indigenous groups for post colonial communalism and native self determination in contemporary global society Drawing on her ethnographic work among the Akimel O odham and the Wiradjuri Carolyn Smith Morris shows how communal work and culture help these communities form distinctive indigenous Whose School Is It? Rhoda H. Halperin, 2010-01-01 Whose School Is It Women Children Memory and Practice in bonds the City is a success story with roadblocks crashes and detours Rhoda Halperin uses feminist theorist and activist Gloria Anzald a s ideas about borderlands created by colliding cultures to deconstruct the creation and advancement of a public community charter school in a diverse long lived urban neighborhood on the Ohio River Class race and gender mix with age local knowledge and place authenticity to create a page turning story of grit humor and sheer stubbornness The school has grown and flourished in the face of daunting market forces class discrimination and an increasingly unfavorable national climate for charter schools Borderlands are tense spaces The school is a microcosm of the global city Many theoretical strands converge in this book feminist theory ideas about globalization class analysis and accessible narrative writing to present some new approaches in urban anthropology. The book is multi-voiced and nuanced in ways that provide authenticity and texture to the real circumstances of urban lives At the same time identities are threatened as community practices clash with rules and regulations imposed by outsiders Since it is based on fifteen years of ethnographic fieldwork in the community and the city Whose School Is It brings unique long term perspectives on continuities and disjunctures in cities Halperin s work as researcher and advocate also provides insider perspectives that are rare in the literature of urban anthropology

The Spatial Scale of Crime John R. Hipp,2022-12-09 Combining insights from two distinct research traditions the communities and crime tradition that focuses on why some neighborhoods have more crime than others and the burgeoning crime and place literature that focuses on crime in micro geographic units this book explores the spatial scale of crime Criminologist John Hipp articulates a new theoretical perspective that provides an individual and household level theory to underpin existing ecological models of neighborhoods and crime A focus is maintained on the agents of change within neighborhoods and communities and how households nested in neighborhoods might come to perceive problems in the neighborhood and then have a choice of exit voice loyalty or neglect EVLN A characteristic of many crime incidents is that they happen at a particular spatial location and a point in time These two simple insights suggest the need for both a spatial and a longitudinal perspective in studying crime events The spatial question focuses on why crime seems to occur more frequently in some locations than others and the consequences of this for certain areas of cities or neighborhoods The longitudinal component focuses on how crime impacts and is impacted by characteristics of the environment This book looks at where offenders targets and guardians might live and where they might spatially travel throughout the environment exploring how vibrant neighborhoods are generated how neighborhoods change and what determines why some neighborhoods decline over time while others avoid this fate Hipp's theoretical model provides a cohesive response to the general question of the spatial scale of crime and articulates necessary future directions for the field This book is essential for students and scholars interested in spatial temporal criminology Appalachian Cultural Competency Susan Emley Keefe, 2005 Health and human service practitioners who work in Appalachia know that the typical textbook methods for dealing with clients often have little relevance in the context of Appalachian culture Despite confronting behavior and values different from those of mainstream America these professionals may be instructed to follow organizational mandates that are ineffective in mountain communities subsequently drawing criticism from their clients for practices that are deemed insensitive or controversial In Appalachian Cultural Competency Susan E Keefe has assembled fifteen essays by a multidisciplinary set of scholars and professionals many nationally renowned for their work in the field of Appalachian studies Together these authors argue for the development of a cultural model of practice based on respect for local knowledge the value of community diversity and collaboration between professionals and local communities groups and individuals The essays address issues of both practical and theoretical interest from understanding rural mountain speech to tailoring mental health therapies for Appalachian clients Other topics include employee assistance programs for Appalachian working class women ways of promoting wellness among the Eastern Cherokees and understanding Appalachian death practices Keefe advocates an approach to delivering health and social services that both acknowledges and responds to regional differences without casting judgments or creating damaging stereotypes and hierarchies Often she observes the reflexive approach she advocates runs counter to formal professional training that is more suited to urban and non Appalachian contexts Health care professionals mental health therapists social workers ministers and others in social services will benefit from the specific cultural knowledge offered by contributors illustrated by case studies in a myriad of fields and situations Grounded in real tested strategies and illustrated clearly through the authors experiences Appalachian Cultural Competency is an invaluable sourcebook stressing the importance of cultural understanding between professionals and the Appalachian people they serve Dimensions of Ritual Economy Patricia Ann McAnany, 2008-05-05 Increasingly economists have acknowledged that a major limitation to economic theory has been its failure to incorporate human values and beliefs as motivational factors This book explores how values and beliefs structure the dual processes of provisioning and Integrating Gender in the Social Work Core Curriculum ,1999 Building America: Migration der consuming Bilder Anke Köth, 2005 Der Melting Pot USA ist seit jeher der Ort an dem sich die Ideenwelten von Immigranten und ihre kulturellen Voraussetzungen mit der vorgefundenen Lebenswirklichkeit verdichten In diesem Spannungsfeld von Erwartungen und Realit t verarbeiten auch Reisende und die Amerikaner selbst ihre Eindr cke zu subjektiven oft auf
