Regional Innovation Knowledge And Global Change:

Regional Innovation, Knowledge and Global Change Zoltan Acs, 2013-12-19 First Published in 1999 The process of globalization is shaped and reinforced by a rapidly changing knowledge environment As economies become less constrained national frontiers they become more geographically specialized Thus important elements of the innovation process tend to become regional rather than national In this new environment large corporations are weakening their links with their home country spreading their innovation activities to source different regional systems of innovation Regional networks of forms are creating new forms of learning and production The aim of this book is to broaden both conceptually and empirically the national systems of innovation approach developed by Lundvall Freeman Nelson and others While recognizing the creative nature of economic adjustment in a turbulent world and the highly uneven distribution of economic growth the national systems approach lacks a mechanism by which to understand innovation when realistic unit of analysis is no longer the nation state Written by leading scholars in the field this book provides a ground breaking examination of sub regional systems of innovation in an interconnected global economy
