Regions Of War And Peace:

Regions of War and Peace Douglas Lemke, 2002-01-21 In this contribution to the literature on the causes of war Douglas Lemke asks whether the same factors affect minor powers as affect major ones He investigates whether power parity and dissatisfaction with the status quo have an impact within Africa the Far East the Middle East and South America Lemke argues that there are similarities across these regions and levels of power and that parity and dissatisfaction are correlates of war around the world The extent to which they increase the risk of war varies across regions however and the book looks at the possible sources of this cross regional variation concluding that differential progress toward development is the likely cause This book will interest students and scholars of international relations and peace studies as well as comparative politics and area studies

Regions, Power, and Conflict William R. Thompson, Thomas J. Volgy, Paul Bezerra, Jacob Cramer, Kelly Marie Gordell, Manjeet Pardesi, Karen Rasler, J. Patrick Rhamey Jr., Kentaro Sakuwa, Rachel Van Nostrand, Leila Zakhirova, 2022-08-16 The three main levels of analysis in international relations have been the systemic the national and the individual A fourth level that falls between the systemic and the national is the region It is woefully underdeveloped in comparison to the attention afforded the other three Yet regions tend to be distinctive theaters for international politics Otherwise we would not recognize that Middle Eastern interstate politics somehow does not resemble Latin American interstate politics or interstate politics in Southern Africa although once the Middle East and Southern Africa may have seemed more similar in their mutual fixation with opposition to domestic policies in Israel and South Africa respectively This book divided into three parts first makes a case for studying regional politics even though it must also be appreciated that regional boundaries are also hazy and not always easy to pin down empirically The second part examines power distributions within regions as an important entry point to studying regional similarities and differences Two emphases are stressed One is that regional power assessments need to be conditioned by controlling for weak states which are more common in some regions than they are in others The other emphasis is on regional power hierarchies Some regions have strong regional hierarchies while others do not Regions with strong hierarchies operate much differently from those without them in the sense that the former are more pacific than the latter The third part of the book focuses on regional differences in terms of conflict behavior order preferences rivalries and rivalry termination

The Relevance of Regions in a Globalized World Galia Press-Barnathan, Ruth Fine, Arie M. Kacowicz, 2018-11-09 This volume provides a unique open inter disciplinary dialogue across the Humanities and Social Sciences to further our understanding of the phenomenon of regions and regionalism in a globalized world both at the theoretical and empirical levels What comprises a region What are the different regional dynamic processes that take place What is the relationship between the regional and the global What role does identity building play Bringing together scholars from various disciplines within and across the Social Sciences and the Humanities to reflect on these questions the book explores how regions are imagined constructed understood and explained in different academic disciplines Each chapter addresses these common questions and uses its own disciplinary lenses to answer them In addition the volume offers interesting reflections on the academic borders constructed in the study of regions thus demonstrating the importance of obtaining insights from both social scientists and humanities scholars in order to better understand the relevance of regions in a complex and globalized world An important work for scholars and postgraduate students in many fields including political science international relations sociology economics geography history and literature as well as for those interested in regionalism and area studies Regions and Powers Barry Buzan,Ole Wæver,2003-12-04 This book develops the idea that since decolonisation regional patterns of security have become more prominent in international politics The authors combine an operational theory of regional security with an empirical application across the whole of the international system Individual chapters cover Africa the Balkans CIS Europe East Asia EU Europe the Middle East North America South America and South Asia The main focus is on the post Cold War period but the history of each regional security complex is traced back to its beginnings By relating the regional dynamics of security to current debates about the global power structure the authors unfold a distinctive interpretation of post Cold War international security avoiding both the extreme oversimplifications of the unipolar view and the extreme deterritorialisations of many globalist visions of a new world disorder Their framework brings out the radical diversity of security dynamics in different parts of the world Regional Peacemaking and Conflict Management Carmela Lutmar,Benjamin Miller,2015-11-06 This volume examines mechanisms for regional peacemaking and conflict management in Europe and the Middle East To date little research has been devoted to uncovering the conditions for peace and the factors that contribute to stabilizing the state of peace This volume assesses the factors that contribute to regional pacification the incentives that motivate states in establishing peaceful relations and most importantly how regions become peaceful It discusses the conditions under which various types of peace might emerge on a regional level and the factors most likely to determine the outcome The book takes an innovative approach through a systematic comparison of two regions that are particularly prominent and important for the subject of regional pacification Europe and the Middle East While many believe that the European case is the indispensable model for peacemaking others believe that these two regions are too different for Europe to be a useful framework for the Middle East This volume occupies a middle ground between these two extreme positions It argues that while a mindless copying of European models will not lead to peace in the Middle East important insights can be gained from the most successful case of regional peacemaking to date This work will be of much interest to students of regional security peacemaking conflict management Middle East politics European security and IR in general States, Nations, and the Great Powers Benjamin Miller,2007-08-30 Why are some regions prone to war while others remain at peace What conditions cause regions to move from peace to war and vice versa This book offers a novel theoretical explanation for the differences in levels of and transitions between war and peace The author distinguishes between hot and cold outcomes

depending on intensity of the war or the peace and then uses three key concepts state nation and the international system to argue that it is the specific balance between states and nations in different regions that determines the hot or warm outcomes the lower the balance the higher the war proneness of the region while the higher the balance the warmer the peace The international systematic factors for their part affect only the cold outcomes of cold war and cold peace The theory of regional war and peace developed in this book is examined through case studies of the post 1945 Middle East the Balkans and South America in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries and post 1945 Western Europe It uses comparative data from all regions and concludes by proposing ideas on how to promote peace in war torn regions Negotiating

Armenian-Azerbaijani Peace Ohannes Geukjian,2016-04-22 Conflict resolution conflict management and conflict transformations are major themes in this unique book which examines explores and analyses the mediation attempts of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe in the Nagorno Karabakh conflict Ohannes Geukjian shows the most striking characteristic of a protracted internal conflict such as this is its asymmetry and explains that without meeting basic human needs like identity recognition security and participation resolving any protracted social conflict is very difficult The Armenian Azerbaijani case demonstrates how official diplomacy may not be able to solve protracted internal conflicts as without addressing the real causes of the problematic relationship attempts at peace making will always be sporadic and the space for mutual understanding and compromise shrink Geukjian shows that conflict transformation has a particular salience in asymmetric conflicts such as this where the goal is to transform unjust relationships and where a high degree of polarisation between the disputants has taken root Using the Nagorno Karabakh case this book focuses on the anatomy and causes of deadlock in negotiations and highlights the many difficulties in achieving a breakthrough Turmoil and Order in Regional International Politics William R. Thompson,Thomas J. Volgy,2023-04-10 This edited book complements and follows up on the book Thompson and Volgy et al Regions Power and Conflict Constrained Capabilities Hierarchy and Rivalry It is predicated in part on the paucity of published material available on comparing regional international politics Monadic dyadic and systemic approaches all have their uses and have been exploited extensively The same cannot be said about comparative regional analysis The premise is that a great deal of international politics takes place within regional parameters Most states simply lack the capability or interest in devoting many resources to extra regional affairs Yet each region is distinctive In some military coups remain common while they have died out as a form of political practice in others A few have been highly conflictual and then become more pacific while others persist in their conflict intensity Some have powerful neighbors with intervention tendencies while others are surrounded by relatively weak states Some are rich others are poor The point is that regions all with proper names have attributes that can be harnessed through comparison to explain why regional behavior differs greatly across the planet The aim is to replace the proper names with the leading variables that appear to drive behavior For instance to shrug and say that s the Middle East for you does not take us very far Replacing the Middle East label with conceptualization about how a set of small weak autocratic states behave subject to high penetration by major powers might take us farther than shrugging off regional identity We have good reasons to think that comparative regional analysis can deliver an explanatory value added product just as much as alternative levels of analysis can Ultimately we might desire to integrate separate levels of analysis rather than segregating them But in the short term we need to encourage comparative regional analysis because it is the least developed perspective Why that might be the case can be debated but it stems in part from our disciplinary tendencies for some analysts to specialize in regional behavior largely in a descriptive vein while others prefer to focus on explaining universal behavior Comparative regional behavior tends to be squeezed out by regional scholars who suspect generalization about behavior and universal scholars who suspect particular contexts such as regions Comparative regional analysis requires analysts who are willing to explore generalization but acknowledge regional contexts more explicitly than is customary At the same time more general substitutes for those regional labels must be introduced if explanatory headway is to be achieved
