Marketing and Advertising Law in a Process of Harmonisation Ulf Bernitz, Caroline Heide-Jørgensen, 2017-05-04
The law on marketing and advertising has undergone profound changes based on the EU directives on unfair commercial practices and misleading and comparative advertising. The legislation partially requires full harmonisation and contains a comprehensive blacklist of prohibited practices. However, in other areas only minimum harmonisation is required. A comprehensive case law from the CJEU has emerged but still many issues remain open, unclear and debated. The EU Commission has an active interest in the field and has published numerous reports on the question. In addition, it has developed revised comprehensive guidelines on marketing business to consumer B2C which are fully discussed here. Further Commission initiatives in the area on business to business B2B marketing are also in the making, underlining the importance of this new collection.

New Hungary, 1951 Designing Portals Ali Jafari, Mark C. Sheehan, 2003
Portals present unique strategic challenges in the academic environment. Their conceptualization and design requires the input of campus constituents who seldom interact and whose interests are often opposite. The implementation of a portal requires a coordination of applications and databases controlled by different campus units at a level that may never before have been attempted at the institution. Building a portal is as much about constructing intra-campus bridges as it is about user interfaces and content. Designing Portals: Opportunities and Challenges discusses the current status of portals in higher education by providing insight into the role portals play in an institution's business and educational strategy by taking the reader through the processes of conceptualization, design and implementation of the portals in different stages of development at major universities and by offering insight from three producers of portal software systems in use at institutions of higher learning and elsewhere.
