River Coastal And Shoreline Protection Erosion Control Using Riprap And Armourstone:

River, Coastal and Shoreline Protection, 1995 Riprap Design Criteria, Recommended Specifications, and Quality Control Peter Frederick Lagasse, National Cooperative Highway Research Program, 2006 TRB's National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Report 568 Riprap Design Criteria Recommended Specifications and Quality Control examines design guidelines recommended material specifications and test methods recommended construction specifications and construction inspection and quality control guidelines for riprap for a range of applications including revetment on streams and riverbanks bridge piers and abutments and bridge scour countermeasures such as guide banks and spurs

River, Coastal and Shoreline Protection C. R. Thorne, 1995-07-05 RIPRAP is a widely used engineering method for protecting river banks and coastlines from erosion This book studies the fundamental issues and problems concerned with various aspects of this method of erosion control River and Channel Revetments Manuela Escarameia, 1998-04 Provides information on the types of revetment available and guidance on the choice and design of these systems This manual includes information on revetments that incorporate some form of structural protection and those which combine this protection with vegetation to increase the environmental quality of the systems It is aimed at engineers Municipal Stormwater Management Thomas N. Debo, Andrew Reese, 2002-11-25 Designed to be a stand alone desktop reference for the Stormwater manager designer and planner the bestselling Municipal Stormwater Management has been expanded and updated Here is what's new in the second edition New material on complying with the NPDES program for Phase II and in running a stormwater quality program The latest information on Tailings and Mine Waste 1996 Colorado State University, 2002-01-26 Presents papers on mine and mill tailings and mine waste as well as current and future issues facing the mining and environmental communities Subjects related to technical capabilities and developments regulations and environmental concerns are included Guide to Bridge Hydraulics Transportation Association of Canada, 2004 Basic hydraulic considerations Channel types and behaviour relation to bridges Basic hydraulic requirements Hydraulic design procedures Hydrologic estimates Statistical frequency analysis Runoff modeling Empirical methods High water levels and stage discharge relations Extreme floods and risk Scour protection and channel control Scour protection around bridge foundations Erosion protection of banks and slopes Design of rock riprap Channel control works Hydraulic aspects of construction inspection and maintenance Construction Inspection Maintenance Special problems Tidal crossings Inland basic crossings Waves and waves protection Physical modeling of bridge problems Alluvial fans Debris flow and torrents Shore and Beach, 1998

An Illustrated Guide for Monitoring and Protecting Bridge Waterways Against Scour R. Ettema, 2006 This report is a well illustrated and practical Guide intended to aid engineers and engineering technicians in monitoring maintaining and protecting bridge waterways so as to mitigate or prevent scour from adversely affecting the structural performance of bridge abutments piers and approach road embankments Described and illustrated here are the scour processes affecting the stability of these components of bridge waterways Also described and illustrated are methods for monitoring waterways and the various methods for repairing scour damage and protecting bridge waterways against scour The Guide focuses on smaller bridges especially those in Iowa Scour processes at small bridges are complicated by the close proximity of abutments piers and waterway banks such that scour processes interact in ways difficult to predict and for which reliable design relationships do not exist Additionally blockage by woody debris or by ice along with changes in approach channel alignment can have greater effects on pier and abutment scour for smaller bridges These considerations tend to cause greater reliance on monitoring for smaller bridges The Guide is intended to augment and support as a source of information existing procedures for monitoring bridge waterways It also may prompt some adjustments of existing forms and reports used for bridge monitoring In accord with increasing emphasis on effective management of public facilities like bridges the Guide ventures to include an example report format for quantitative risk assessment applied to bridge waterways Quantitative risk assessment is useful when many bridges have to be evaluated for scour risk and damage and priorities need to be determined for repair and protection work Such risk assessment aids comparison of bridges at risk It is expected that bridge inspectors will implement the Guide as a concise handy reference available back at the office The Guide also likely may be implemented as an educational primer for new inspectors who have yet to become acquainted with waterway scour Additionally the Guide may be implemented as a part of process to check whether existing bridge inspection forms or reports adequately encompass bridge waterway scour

Countermeasures to Protect Bridge Piers from Scour Peter Frederick Lagasse, National Cooperative Highway Research Program, 2007 Explores practical selection criteria for bridge pier scour countermeasures guidelines and specifications for the design and construction of those countermeasures and guidelines for their inspection maintenance and performance evaluation Produced along with the report is an interactive version of the countermeasure selection methodology which defines the proper conditions for the use of each specific countermeasure and a reference document that contains detailed laboratory testing results and translations of three German Code of Practice documents Shore & Beach, 1997 Environmental and Coastal Hydraulics International Association for Hydraulic Research. Congress, 1997 This proceedings Environmental and Coastal Hydraulics Protecting the Aquatic Environment contains papers presented at the 27th Congress of the International Association of Hydraulic Research IAHR entitled Water for a Changing Global Community These two volumes cover topics ranging from basic research in fluid flow mixing sediment transport turbulence and interactions among flow sediment vegetation and structures to applications in contaminant transport coastal zone management stream habitat restoration water quality waterway rehabilitation and wetlands In addition research and engineering methodologies such as instrumentation measurement physical modeling field monitoring and computational modeling are discussed Coastal Engineering Manual: Design of coastal project elements, 2001
