Philippine Education For The 21st Century 1998 Philippines Education Sector Study:

Philippine Education for the 21st Century, 1999 The International Handbook of Educational Research in the Asia-Pacific Region J.P. Keeves, Ryo Watanabe, 2013-11-11 The aim of the Handbook is to present readily accessible but scholarly sources of information about educational research in the Asia Pacific region The scale and scope of the Handbook is such that the articles included in it provide substantive contributions to knowledge and understanding of education in the Asia region In so doing the articles present the problems and issues facing education in the region and the findings of research conducted within the region that contribute to the resolution of these problems and issues Moreover since new problems and issues are constantly arising the articles in the Handbook also indicate the likely directions of future developments The different articles within the Handbook seek to conceptualize the problems in each specific content area under review provide an integration of the research conducted within that area the theoretical basis of the research the practical implications of the research and the contribution of the research towards the resolution of the problems identified Thus the articles do not involve the reporting of newly conducted research but rather require a synthesis of the research undertaken in a particular area with reference to the research methods employed and the theoretical frameworks on which the research is based In general the articles do not advocate a single point of view but rather present alternative points of view and comment on the debate and disagreements associated with the conduct and findings of the research Furthermore it should be noted that the Handbook is not concerned with research methodology and only considers the methods employed in inquiry in so far as the particular methods of research contribute to the effective investigation of problems and issues that have arisen in the conduct and provision of education at different levels within the region Reforming Teaching

Globally Maria Teresa Tatto, 2009-11-01 Originally Published in 2007 by Symposium Books This book seeks to raise the discussion of globalisation's effects on teacher education development and work and its reforms and institutions to a more theoretical and analytical level and to provide specific examples in the comparative tradition to illustrate teacher policy in the context of education systems widespread variability and complexity The contributors critically analyse current arrangements in teacher education development and work and highlight the forces that enter in this contested terrain the sources of conflict and convergence and the implication of these for teaching and learning and for indigenous forms of knowledge and knowledge construction in the globalisation era Going to School in East Asia Gerard Postiglione, Jason Tan, 2007-09-30

Education in east Asia varies widely due to the cultural and political histories of each country The communist governments of China North Korea and Vietnam mandate schooling differently from the limited democracy of Hong Kong and the parliamentary government of Japan The history of the educational philosophies systems and curricula of seventeen East Asian countries are described here with a timeline highlighting educational developments and a special day in the life feature a personal account of what it is like for a student to attend school in that country East Asia Decentralizes, 2005-01-01

This report states that the future of East Asian countries depends on the capacity and performance of local and provincial governments. Decentralization has unleashed local initiative and energy with new ways to deliver services to people with potential for continued improvement. The report which focuses on six countries notes the differences in the approach to decentralizing government in Cambodia, China, Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, and Vietnam. Developing Capacity Through Technical Cooperation Stephen Browne, 2024-11-01. Technical co-operation involving northern experts transferring expertise to the south has not always worked. In fact it has sometimes been counter-productive, fostering a dependency on outside help rather than creating a genuine indigenous capability. This study by experts from Harvard University and the UN Development Programme (UNDP) uses a range of country studies to analyze what has worked in the past, what hasn't, and how to ensure that future co-operation results in genuine capacity building and ownership of the new capabilities by the recipients. It aims to offer a framework for evaluating different methods to achieve these goals. The volume is a companion to the earlier Capacity for Development and should be useful for all those working in international development as well as researchers, academics, and students. Philippine Human Development Report, 2008. Technical Assistance to the Republic of the Philippines for the Organizational Development of the Commission on Higher Education Asian Development Bank, 2002. Education, Labor Market, and Development Aniceto C. Orbeta, 2003. International Social Science Journal, 2004. Language Policy for Education in the Philippines Susan Brigham, 1999. ADB Review Asian Development Bank, 1999. Philippine Journal of Linguistics, 2003. ADB Publications Asian Development Bank, 2005. College Fee Structure and Philippine Inflation Edita A. Tan, 2003. Private Education in the Philippines Norman LaRocque, 2002.

Bibliographic Guide to Government Publications 2001 GK Hall, Thomson Gale, 2002-08. The Costs and Financing of Education Mark Bray, 2004. This booklet is primarily concerned with formal kindergarten, school, technical, vocational, and higher education systems. The work is concerned not only with government financing of education but also with various forms of private household and community financing. Towards Rationalizing Philippine Higher Education, 2003*. Financing Education : Investments and Returns, 2003. Knowledge and skill are seen to have an increasingly important role in improving the economic and social conditions of countries, but investment in such human capital is unlikely to be successful unless programmes are designed to meet desired objectives. To make sure that this happens, countries need to pay attention to international comparisons. To make sure comparative statistics were reliable, 11 countries (Argentina, Brazil, Chile, China, India, Indonesia, Jordan, Malaysia, the Philippines, the Russian Federation, and Thailand) started the World Education Indicators programme in 1997. This is the third report of the programme and it is in three sections: investing in human capital, and returns; public and private roles in education; country profiles.
