Philip Larkin James Booth, 2014-08-28 Philip Larkin was that rare thing among poets a household name in his own lifetime Lines such as Never such innocence again and Sexual intercourse began In nineteen sixty three made him one of the most popular poets of the last century Larkin's reputation as a man however has been more controversial A solitary librarian known for his pessimism he disliked exposure and had no patience with the literary circus And when in 1992 the publication of his Selected Letters laid bare his compartmentalised personal life accusations of duplicity faithlessness racism and misogyny were levelled against him There is of course no requirement that poets should be likeable or virtuous but James Booth asks whether art and life were really so deeply at odds with each other Can the poet who composed the moving Love Songs in Age have been such a cold hearted man Can he who uttered the playful self deprecating words Deprivation is for me what daffodils were for Wordsworth really have been so boorish A very different public image is offered by those who shared the poet's life the women with whom he was romantically involved his friends and his university colleagues It is with their personal testimony including access to previously unseen letters that Booth reinstates a man misunderstood not a gaunt emotional failure but a witty provocative and entertaining presence delightful company an attentive son and a man devoted to the women he loved Meticulously researched unwaveringly frank and full of fresh material Philip Larkin Life Art and Love definitively reinterprets one of our greatest poets
