Architect's Year Book Jane Drew, 1947      Jake and Dinos Chapman Christoph Grunenberg, Tanya Barson, Tate Gallery Liverpool, 2006 Though the media has often focused exclusively on the shock value and use of horror effects in the work of Dinos and Jake Chapman the artists have continued to address some of the most pertinent and controversial issues of our time the endless human capacity for war genetic manipulation plastic surgery cloning the assumed asexuality and innocence of children and the instability of moral and ideological belief systems In this major exhibition catalogue is a more balanced critical response including a variety of interpretations from leading writers and critics across different fields Illustrating well known and iconic works such as Disasters of War 1993 and Great Deeds Against the Dead 1994 the book also includes works that have rarely been reproduced before plus a number of new works created specifically for the accompanying Tate exhibition      The Biblical Archaeologist George Ernest Wright, 1995      High Art Lite Julian Stallabrass, 2006-11-17 A scathing and incisive critique of the contemporary art world in an updated new edition      The Philistine, 1912      Curating Subjects Søren Andreasen, 2007 Edited by Paul O'Neill Introduction by Paul O'Neill Annie Fletcher      Decorated Philistine Pottery David Ben-Shlomo, 2006 This study concentrates on Philistine decorated pottery its production centres and trade patterns These issues are examined by both archaeological and archaeometric approaches Over recent years a considerable amount of data has been accumulated on Philistine sites especially from the excavations at Tel Miqne Ekron and the new excavations at Ashkelon and Tell es Safi Thus although a vast literature already exists on the Philistines their material culture and related issues there has been very little study that systematically combines all this data This work examines the Iron Age Philistine material culture in general and the Philistine pottery in particular from a holistic approach The Philistine phenomenon is defined and described in Part 1 from its various aspects the historical background the archaeological evidence and its social and ethnic aspects Part 2 describes and discusses the updated archaeological evidence of pottery production and workshops in the southern Levant during the end of the Late Bronze Age and the Iron Age Ethnographic research is utilized to describe the pottery production sequence technological aspects and modes of production and distribution of pottery As this work is a provenance study of a geographically and geologically limited area a methodological discussion was called for presented in Part 3 In Part 4 the archaeometric results are presented Part 5 combines the archaeological and archaeometric results and evaluates them from a broader cultural technological and historical perspectives
