philosophy and that a reorientation toward descriptive work is needed in moral philosophy She traces resources for a descriptive philosophical ethics in the work of four prominent philosophers of the twentieth century John Dewey Ludwig Wittgenstein Michel Foucault and Charles Taylor while also calling on thinkers inspired by them Announcement of Courses to be Offered in the Philosophical Department Oberlin College. Treatise on Basic Philosophy M. Bunge, 2012-12-06 The purpose of this Introduction is to sketch our approach to the study of value morality and action and to show the place we assign it in the system of human knowledge

1 VALUE MORALITY AND ACTION FACT THEORY AND METATHEORY We take it that all animals evaluate some things and some processes and that some of them learn the social behavior patterns we call moral principles and even act according to them at least some of the time An animal incapable of evaluating anything would be very short lived and a social animal that did not observe the accepted social behavior patterns would be punished These are facts about values morals and behavior patterns they are incorporated into the bodies of animals or the structure of social groups We distinguish then the facts of valuation morality and action from the study of such facts This study can be scientific philosophic or both wayan animal evaluates environmental A zoologist may investigate the or internal stimuli a social psychologist may examine the way children learn or fail to learn certain values and norms when placed in certain environments And a philosopher may study such descriptive or explan atory studies with a view to evaluating valuations moral norms or behavior patterns he may analyze the very concepts of value morals and action as well as their cognates or he may criticize or reconstruct value beliefs moral norms and action plans
