Power Through Bureaucracy Urban Political Analysis In Brazil:

Power Through Bureaucracy Richard Batley, 1983 Brazil's Economic and Political Future Julian M.

Chacel, 2019-03-05 The 1985 elections in Brazil returned South America's largest country to democratic rule after two decades of military government But the Sarney administration faces substantial economic and political challenges over a 250 percent annual inflation rate a foreign debt of more than 115 billion and over a 20 percent unemployment rate This collec

Rights of Way to Brasília Teimosa, 2014-07-01 The site of Recife's Brasília Teimosa favela emerged as a flash point of economic and political interests in the 1930s and the scene of subsequent strife into the 1980s The name of this district is a contemptuous allusion to the new capital of Brazil with its forward thinking planning policies and urban design in stark contrast to the favela This concise account unearths events surfacing through periods of revolution dictatorship populism Cuban Communism the 1964 military coup d'état and crackdown to the amplified reverberation of civil society voices and engagement decades later Shifting ideologies and jolting transitions between regimes directly affected what occurred on this 110 acre parcel of urban land Between 1934 and 1984 competing groups and individuals came to covet this space because of its strategic location and political consequence Brasília Teimosa is about the politics of ouster and the power of resistance What took place there still resonates in squatter settlements throughout Brazil deplorable living conditions prevalent in favelas are the result of deprivation of access to market resources This work examines the interactions between the state and neighbourhood associations regarding the allocation of public goods and services in the context of urban resources and their system of supply In particular it focuses on the political struggles of shanty residents of Brasília Teimosa that are pertinent to the provision of and access to urban land tenure Control and use of public lands have functioned as instruments of the state to pursue political projects in coalition with private real estate partners to undermine the strength of opposing factions or to seal populist pacts with the urban poor who as illegal occupants of public land are locked into a dependency relationship with the state As will be shown the residents of Brasília Teimosa discovered and exploited space for political manoeuvres in order to secure permanence on a centrally located publicly owned site The Making of Citizens Bryan Roberts, 2020-11-25 Originally published as Cities of Peasants this highly acclaimed account of the expansion of capitalism in the developing world has now been extensively rewritten and updated Focusing on Latin America Bryan Roberts traces the evolution of developing societies and their economies to the present Taking account of the move towards more open economies a shrinking of the state and various transitions towards democracies he shows how urban growth has produced new patterns of social stratification creating opportunities for social mobility but doing little to decrease income inequality or political and social pressures Underlying social changes have broadened the practice of citizenship in developing countries limiting authoritarian rule but within a context of entrenched social inequalities and persisting political instability This book conveys both the flavour of life in the cities of the third world and the immediacy of their problems Migration, Urbanization, and Development Richard E. Bilborrow, 1998 Internal migration and urbanization are key dimensions of the process of socioeconomic development The unprecedented movement of peoples within the borders of their own countries is one of the greatest transformations witnessed in the 20th century Policy analysts especially those from developing countries where internal migration can be felt at first hand view migration as one of the most important factors affecting the course of development It is within this context that UNFPA convened the Symposium on Internal Migration and Urbanization in Developing Countries in January 1996 in preparation for the United Nations World Conference on Human Settlements in Istanbul in June 1996 The final results of the symposium are found in this book This volume provides a better understanding at global level of internal migration issues of concern to policy analysts Housing Needs and Policy Approaches Willem Van Vliet, Elizabeth D. Huttman, Sylvia Fleis Fava, 1985 Drawing upon research from six continents Housing Needs and Policy Approaches analyzes the social problems involved with providing housing in the industrialized nations and in the Third World The book focuses on four areas of concern current trends in housing in specific Western countries the role of Western governments in creating this housing housing provisions in less developed nations and the relationship of societal structure and housing particularly with respect to the decentralization of population occurring in many regions Inside Third World Cities Stella Lowder, 2021-06-29 Originally published in 1986 this book focusses on life within global cities in the developing world analysing on a city level the circulation and consumption of goods and services within them When the book was first published it was one of only a few to offer systematic comparative analyses of developing world cities and those stemming from different regions with examples from different continents in each chapter It discusses the problems faced by such city populations and shows how the procedures distributive systems and social conventions reflect the complex histories of the cities most of which have been subject to colonial rule and of their inhabitants many of whom are either migrants or first generation citizens Evictions - 7010 iied International Institute for Environment & Development, 1994 The Cornell Journal of Social Relations ,1984 Latin America in Books ,1986 Bibliographie internationale des recensions de la littérature savante ,1974 Handbook of Latin American and Caribbean Studies in the UK University of London.
