Power Without Responsibility The Press And Broadcasting In Britain:

Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 1997 This book is a classic and authoritative introduction to the history sociology theory and politics of students and teachers of media and communication studies Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 2003 The sixth edition of this title is a guide for all those involved with the production and consumption of the media It includes up to date analysis of new media and legislation New Labour conservatism and coverage of Scottish and Welsh devolution Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 2009-09-10 Power Without Responsibility is a classic introduction to the history sociology theory and politics of the media in Britain Hailed by the Times Higher as the seminal media text and translated into Arabic Chinese and other foreign languages it is an essential guide for media students and critical media consumers alike The new edition has been substantially revised to bring it right up to date with developments in the media industry new media technologies and changes in the political and academic debates surrounding the media In this new edition the authors consider the impact of the internet the failure of interactive TV media and Britishness new media and global understanding journalism in crisis BBC and broadcasting at the beginning of the twenty first century Assessing the media at a time of profound change the authors set out the democratic choices for media reform Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 1988 The third edition of this well established text first published in 1981 breaks new ground in two ways Its provides a critical account of all the major proposals for reforming the media in the post Peacock era from the new right s programme for electronic publishing to the new left s plan for the international regulation of satellite TV It also offers the only available up to date analysis of recent media developments from the launch of the first quality daily in over a century to the rise and fall of Eddy Shah The book is divided into four parts press history broadcasting history theories of the media and politics of the media It is a standard book for media studies students and is widely used on politics sociology and social history courses It has also acquired a reputation outside academic circles for being an exceptionally well written and authoritative guide to the issues raised by the contemporary press and broadcasting 4 me de couv Power Without Responsibility James Curran, Jean Seaton, 2003-12-16 Widely regarded as the standard book on the British Media this authoritative introduction to the history sociology theory and politics of media and communications studies has been substantially revised and updated to bring it up to date with developments in the media industry Its three new chapters describe the battle for the soul of the internet the impact of the internet on society and the rise of new media in Britain In addition it examines the recuperation of the BBC how international and European regulation is changing the British media and why Britain has the least trusted press in Europe The Political Economy of News in China Jesse Owen Hearn Branaman, 2014-12-24 The Political Economy of News in China Manufacturing Harmony is the first full scale application of Herman and Chomsky s classic propaganda model to the news media content of a country with a system that is not outwardly similar to the United States Jesse Owen Hearn

Branaman examines the news media of the People's Republic of China using the five filters of the original model. He asks provocative questions concerning the nature of media ownership, the effect of government or private ownership on media content, the elite-centered nature of news sourcing patterns, the benefits and costs of having active special interest groups to influence news coverage, the continued usefulness of the concepts of censorship and propaganda, the ability of advertisers to indirectly influence news production, and the potential increase of pro-capitalist, pro-consumerist ideology and nationalism in Chinese news media. This book will appeal to scholars of international media and journalism. Journalism, Culture and Society Omega Douglas, Angela Phillips, 2022-11-30 Drawing upon a range of theoretical perspectives including cultural studies, postcolonial theory, critical race studies, political economy, and sociology, Journalism, Culture and Society examines journalism as a democratic necessity that often fails to live up to its promise. This text takes a step back from prevailing idealistic approaches in which theory is often seen as a threat rather than a service to the better understanding of practice. In mainstream journalism in western democracies, the practice is seen as unproblematic. Instead, using international examples, the authors provide a critique for those who seek to improve journalistic practice whilst not losing sight of the profound practical dilemmas that journalists around the world experience in their working lives, from the resources available to them to the institutions and political contexts in which they work. Readers are encouraged to consider why journalists choose or are expected to choose particular subjects or tropes in their work and the implications of these choices. Journalism, Culture and Society is a valuable resource for students, academics, and practitioners in the areas of media, journalism, and communication.

The British Media Industries Vincent Campbell, Paul Smith, 2023-06-29 The British Media Industries offers an accessible introduction to how the media in Britain operates and the impact that recent political, economic, and technological developments have had on the nature of media industries today. Split into two parts, this book starts by exploring approaches to understanding contemporary media industries through political, economic, and technological terms. The second part delves further into issues and practices relating to individual media industries, including newspapers, magazines, film, television, music, video games, and social media. The book adopts a political economy approach and is designed to engage students in an accessible way with key issues around the ownership and control of different sectors of the British media, UK and EU government regulation of the media, including content regulation and market/economic regulation, and the corporate strategies employed by leading media players such as the BBC, Netflix, Google, and Apple. This is an essential textbook for undergraduate students approaching British media industries for the first time and will also be relevant to students undertaking introductory courses in Media Management and Media Economics. Winston Churchill in the British Media Hanako Ishikawa, 2020-07-17 The book explores how Churchill was portrayed in the UK press during the Second World War, comparing his depictions in Scottish, Welsh, Northern Irish, and provincial English newspapers. By using a variety of newspapers from these areas, it examines local opinions about Churchill at the time he was the wartime prime minister. It analyses how Churchill was received and depicted by newspapers in the UK and why differences in these depictions emerged in each area. It contributes to the study of public opinion in the war and of Churchill's reputation of the British media as well as to the study of the notion of Britishness focusing on local perspectives.

Muslims, Minorities, and the Media Laurens de Rooij, 2023-03-01 Inspired by overtly negative coverage by the Western mainstream press of Muslims in particular and minorities in general this book asks Why are negative narratives and depictions of Muslims and other minorities so hard to change? News reports about Islam and Muslims commonly relate stories that discuss terrorism violence or other unwelcome or irrational behaviour or the lack of integration and compatibility of Muslims and Islam with Western values and society. Yet there is little research done on how studies on media reports about minorities seemingly fail to improve the situation. Combining empirical research with a structural analysis of the media industry this volume presents evidence for the maligned representation of minorities by media corporations analysing why negative narratives persist and outlining how these can be effectively transformed. It is an outstanding resource for students and scholars of media religion culture sociology and Islamic studies and is also of benefit for journalists media representatives and activists looking to effect change for minority representation in the media industry specifically or in society at large.

British Propaganda and News Media in the Cold War John Jenks, 2006 John Jenks digs into the archives to give a detailed account of British media discourse news manipulation and propaganda in the early Cold War.

The Twentieth-century Newspaper Press in Britain David Linton, 1994 This bibliography deals with the 20th century British newspaper press and the individuals concerned with it: proprietors journalists and illustrators. Its 3500 entries include books theses articles and commemorative issues. A chronology and a detailed subject index are included.

British Politics Simon Griffiths, Robert Leach, 2018-03-14 Fully revised and updated third edition of a popular established textbook providing a definitive introduction to Britain's politics: political institutions and processes. Comprehensively reworked and restructured to better align with courses this new edition places great emphasis on the changing context of British politics while addressing key themes such as the ongoing importance of gender and ethnicity to political and social life in Britain. Furthermore the book's familiar authoritative style has been retained with a fresh look and revitalized pedagogical features to provide a complete learning package. The book is designed for courses on or related to British politics. Its accessible style and context setting Part 1 will make it ideal for students new to the field particularly those who haven't studied the subject at school level or international students but its rigour will stimulate and engage more experienced students. New to this Edition Fully updated to cover the 2016 EU Referendum the 2017 General Election and other key political developments. Politics in Action videos with key academic experts and practitioners offer differing viewpoints on the political system. Expanded companion website featuring regular updates and additional pedagogic tools for students and lecturers alike such as self test quizzes flashcards timelines a lecturer testbank and lecture slides. Vibrant and engaging full colour page design to help your students navigate the book's broad coverage.

Broadcasting in the United Kingdom Barrie I. MacDonald, 1993 This second edition covers the changes and new developments in broadcasting resulting from the Broadcasting Act 1990 It is a guide to all sources of information on broadcasting in the UK whether published manuscript or institutional and a source on the history and structure of UK broadcasting

Paper Emperors Sally Young, 2019-03-01 A tour de force Professor Rodney Tiffen Before newspapers were ravaged by the digital age they were a powerful force especially in Australia a country of newspaper giants and kingmakers This magisterial book reveals who owned Australia's newspapers and how they used them to wield political power A corporate and political history of Australian newspapers spanning 140 years it explains how Australia's media system came to be dominated by a handful of empires and powerful family dynasties Many are household names even now Murdoch Fairfax Syme Packer Written with verve and insight and showing unparalleled command of a vast range of sources Sally Young shows how newspaper owners influenced policy making lobbied and bullied politicians and shaped internal party politics The book begins in 1803 with Australia's first newspaper owner a convict who became a wealthy bank owner giving the industry a blend of notoriety power and wealth from the start Throughout the twentieth century Australians were unaware that they were reading newspapers owned by secret bankrupts and failed land boomers powerful mining magnates Underbelly style gangsters bankers and corporate titans It ends with the downfall of Menzies in 1941 and his conviction that a handful of press barons brought him down The intervening years are packed with political drama business machinations and a struggle for readers all while the newspaper barons are peddling power and influence

British Politics Today Bill Jones, Dennis Kavanagh, 1994 Over the last thirty five years British politics has undergone something of a revolution the collapse of strong class allegiance to parties the recovery of an economy once perceived to be in terminal decline the near twenty year rule of the Tories and the extraordinary emergence and establishment of the Blairite New Labour Party Together with these changes we have also seen the reshaping of the civil service the establishment of devolved assemblies the reform of the Lords the decline of ideology the apparent crushing of the Conservative Party and the ubiquity of media management as a tool of political persuasion This text outlines and contextualizes these major changes and more

Carnage and the Media Jean Seaton, 2005 A gripping and insightful examination of the relationship between news makers and news watchers looking at how images of war and tragedy are presented to us in the media and how we consume them Jean Seaton argues that print and television news are central to the way in which we understand and respond emotionally to the world She shows how we now tolerate without question the increasing levels of violence in news reporting and traces the public representation of suffering from ancient Romans through Communist Russia to all those who avidly watch today's breaking news Seaton neither harks back to a lost golden age nor presumes that more news is necessarily better news This is a celebration of the media which despite all its problems we must embrace as an essential part of a free
