Human Rights Related Trade Measures Under International Law Anthony Cassimatis, 2007 When does international law allow a State or group of States to adopt trade measures in order to coerce another State to comply with its international obligations to ensure respect for human rights In answering this question this book draws together complex areas of international law which include the rules prohibiting interference in the internal affairs of sovereign States the rules regulating extra territorial exercises of jurisdiction the law of State responsibility and the international legal rules requiring the protection of human rights and regulating international trade The literature on Trade and issues invariably focuses on a limited number of these areas or approaches the issues from an international relations or economic perspective This book will assist specialists in international human rights law and international trade law academic and government lawyers who advise on or implement international trade policy and those studying the use of human rights related trade measures

The United Nations Commission on Human Rights John P. Pace, 2020-07-10 In this book John P Pace provides the most complete account to date of the United Nations human rights programme both in substance and in chronological breadth Pace worked at the heart of this programme for over thirty years including as the Secretary of the Commission on Human Rights and Coordinator of the World Conference on Human Rights which took place in Vienna in 1993 He traces the issues taken up by the Commission after its launch in 1946 and the methods undertaken to enhance absorption and domestication of international human rights standards He lays out the special procedures carried out by the UN and the emergence of international human rights law The book then turns to the establishment of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights and the mainstreaming of human rights across the United Nations system eventually leading to the establishment of the Human Rights Council to replace the Commission in 2006 Many of the problems we face today including conflict poverty and environmental issues have their roots in human rights problems This book identifies what has been done at the international level in the past and points towards what still needs to be done for the future

Strengthening OLAF, the European Anti-Fraud Office Great Britain. Parliament. House of Lords. European Union Committee, 2004 OLAF the European Anti Fraud Office was established by the Commission in 1999 following the collapse of its predecessor UCLAF and its role is to protect the financial interests of the EU and to fight fraud and corruption within the EU s institutions or within individual EU member states Its efficiency and effectiveness are currently under review and the Commission has brought forward a proposal designed to improve OLAF's operational efficiency improve information flows and protect the rights of individuals under investigation The Committee's report judges that this proposal is premature and unlikely to enhance OLAF's accountability or independence It also notes that the future of OLAF has become entwined with the debate over the post of European Public Prosecutor and that the Commission should not allow this to distract its focus from examining how OLAF can be made more effective in the fight against fraud
