The Greening of Architecture Phillip James Tabb, A. Senem Deviren, 2017-03-02 Contemporary architecture and the culture it reflects dependent as it is on fossil fuels has contributed to the cause and necessity of a burgeoning green process that emerged over the past half century This text is the first to offer a comprehensive critical history and analysis of the greening of architecture through accumulative reduction of negative environmental effects caused by buildings urban designs and settlements Describing the progressive development of green architecture from 1960 to 2010 it illustrates how it is ever evolving and ameliorated through alterations in form technology materials and use and it examines different places worldwide that represent a diversity of cultural and climatic contexts The book is divided into seven chapters with an overview of the environmental issues and the nature of green architecture in response to them followed by an historic perspective of the pioneering evolution of green technology and architectural integration over the past five decades and finally providing the intransigent and culturally pervasive current examples within a wide range of geographic territories The greening of architecture is seen as an evolutionary process that is informed by significant world events climate change environmental theories movements in architecture technological innovations and seminal works in architecture and planning throughout each decade over the past fifty years This time period is bounded on one end by the awareness of environmental problems beginning in the 1960 s the influential texts by Rachel Carson E F Schumacher Buckminster Fuller and Steward Brand and the impact of the OPEC Oil Embargo of 1973 and on the other end the pervasiveness of the necessary greening of architecture that includes systemic reforms in architectural and urban design land use planning transportation agriculture and energy production found in the 2000 s The greening process moves from remediation to holistic models of architecture Geographical landscapes give a global account of the greening process where some examples are parallel and sympathetic and others are in clear contrast to one another with very individuated approaches Certain events like the Rio Summit in 1992 and Kyoto Protocol in 1997 and themes such as the Hannover Principles in 2000 provide a dynamic ideological critique as well as a formal and technical discussion of the embodied and accumulative content of greening principles in architecture

The School Journal ,1898 The Growth of the Homeric Poems George Wilkins,1885 The Architectural Review ,1981 Museums and the Construction of Disciplines Christopher Whitehead,2013-11-20 Museums and museum politics were important elements in the development of the disciplines of Archaeology and Art History in nineteenth century Britain Here Christopher Whitehead explores some of the key debates and events which led to the conceptual differentiation and physical separation of archaeological and artistic material culture looking especially at the ways in which objects and histories were contested within museum politics For example in the 1850s the status of Egyptian antiquities as art or archaeology was keenly debated and this related closely to questions about which kinds of museum should house them and the possible histories and epistemologies in which they might figure This concise study serves as a basis for a discussion of the continued intellectual legacy of this for our understanding management and presentation of the past in the museum and in curricula It is argued that by understanding the politics and circumstances through which the two disciplines were delimited and distinguished from one another we may be able to glimpse retrospectively the possibility of alternative art histories and alternative archaeologies
