Kurtz, 2018-05-23 This book looks at two contradictory ethical motifs the warrior and the pacifist across four major faith traditions Buddhism Judaism Christianity and Islam and their role in shaping our understanding of violence and the morality of its use The Warrior and the Pacifist explores how these faith traditions which now mutually inhabit our life spaces bring with them across the millennia the moral teachings that have traveled from prehistoric humanity embedded in the beliefs rituals and institutions socially constructed by humans to deal with ultimate concerns core aspects of daily personal and social life and life transitions The Power of Dialogue Pamela Payne Lewis, 2007 Theorizing Women & Leadership Julia Storberg-Walker, Paige Haber-Curran, 2017-01-01 Theorizing Women and Leadership New Insights and Contributions from Multiple Perspectives is the fifth volume in the Women and Leadership Research Theory and Practice series This cross disciplinary series from the International Leadership Association enhances leadership knowledge and improves leadership development of women around the world The purpose of this volume is to provide a forum for women to theorize about women s leadership in multiple ways and in multiple contexts Theorizing has been a viewed as a gendered activity Swedberg 2014 and this series of chapters seeks to upend that imbalance The chapters are written by women who represent multiple disciplines cultures races and subject positions The diversity extends into research paradigm and method and the chapters combine to illuminate the multiple ways of knowing about and being a woman leader Twenty first century leadership scholars acknowledge the importance of context and many are considering post heroic leadership models based on relationships rather than traits This volume contributes to this discussion by offering a diverse array of perspectives and ways of knowing about leadership and leading The purpose of the volume is to provide readers with not only interesting new ideas about women and leadership but also to highlight the diverse epistemologies that can contribute to theorizing about women leaders Some chapters represent typical social scientific practices and processes while others represent newer knowledge forms and ways of knowing The volume contributors adopt various epistemological positions ranging from objective researcher to embedded co participant The chapters link their new findings to existing empirical or conceptual work and illustrate how the findings extend amend contradict or confirm existing research The diversity of the chapters is one of the volume s strengths because it illuminates the multiple ways that leadership theory for women can be advanced Typically research based on a realist perspective is more valued in the academy This perspective has indeed generated robust information about leadership in general and women s leadership in particular However readers of this volume are offered an opportunity to explore multiple ways of knowing different ways of researching and are invited to de center researcher objectivity The authors of the chapters offer conceptual and empirical findings illuminate multiple and alternative research practices and in the end suggest future directions for quantitative qualitative and mixed methods research

Transformative Communication Studies Omar Swartz, 2008-01-01 This interdisciplinary collection of essays charts intersections between communication cultural studies and a variety of emergent emancipatory and liberatory discourses Every essay attempts in one way or another to speak to the following questions What would a theory of liberation look like that is premised on a communication view of the world How would such a view expand and even redefine our understanding of liberation Finally how would such a view enlarge our understanding of what is collectively communally and organizationally possible In other words the chapters articulate what can be loosely considered a humanist theory of communication and praxis The goal is to move beyond discourses of liberation that are grounded in essentialist assumptions and to move the conversation toward an engaged criticism on cultural and social levels that facilitates and encourages progressive action This edited collection thus has as its goal a theory of human liberation grounded in communication as a resource for social and spiritual transformation The chapters comprise a mix of conceptual and applied studies that interrogate the communicative practices that naturalize our hierarchical world reifying and stultifying our moral and political imaginations As an antidote to this problem the contributors consider the importance of uncertainty and contingency in the development of human potential Rather than fearing uncertainty and contingency and allowing that fear to control us contributors argue that we should find within these conditions the source of our humanity and the strength to question and resist unjust social reifications When we do this we will rediscover the power of communication and regain an agency and control over our lives We then can start the difficult but humanizing process of constructing the world anew Case study exemplars of this construction thus are showcased

Markets, Deliberation and Environment John O'Neill, 2013-01-11 What is the source of our environmental problems Why is there in modern societies a persistent tendency to environmental damage From within neoclassical economic theory there is a straightforward answer to those questions it is because environmental goods and harms are unpriced They come free This position runs up against a view which runs in entirely the opposite direction that our environmental problems have their source not in a failure to apply market norms rigorously enough but in the very spread of these market mechanisms and norms The source of environmental problems lies in part in the spread of markets both in real geographical terms across the globe and through the introduction of markets mechanisms and norms into spheres of life that previously have been protected from markets In this book John O Neill conducts a thorough examination of these two opposing viewpoints covering a discussion of the ethical boundaries of markets the role of private property rights in environmental protection the nature of sustainability and the valuation of goods over time This book is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students studying courses in ecological and environmental economics

Plato's Dialogue Form and the Care of the Soul Mark Moes, 2000 Plato's Dialogue Form and the Care of the Soul discusses how to read a Platonic dialogue and includes detailed readings of the Symposium and the Philebus In light of recent nondogmatic and dramatic readings of Plato's work it argues that the dialogues depict Socrates and the other masters as practicing philosophy by extending and reinterpreting Greek medicine in a peculiar quasi psychiatric way This book contends that many of the dialogues are depictions of conversations between philosophers and nonphilosophers conversations which are importantly similar to interactions between physicians and patients in Greek medical practice The book contends that these conversations include both diagnostic and therapeutic moments and function as quasi psychiatric case histories presented by Plato to his readers
