Reporting from Washington Donald A. Ritchie, 2005-03-15 Beginning with 1932 when a newly elected FDR energized the sleepy capital Ritchie highlights the dramatic changes in journalism that have occurred in the last seven decades We meet legendary columnists and investigative reporters as well as the pioneers of radio television cable television and internet news We also learn about the efforts of female and black reporters to break into what had long been a bastion of white maleness the press corps From Walter Winchell to Matt Drudge the people who cover Washington politics are among the most colorful and influential in American news Reporting from Washington offers an unforgettable portrait of these figures as well as of the dramatic changes in American journalism in the twentieth century The U.S. Press and Iran

William A. Dorman, Mansour Farhang, 1988-08-24 No one seriously interested in the character of public knowledge and the quality of debate over American alliances can afford to ignore the complex link between press and policy and the ways in which mainstream journalism in the U S portrays a Third World ally The case of Iran offers a particularly rich view of these dynamics and suggests that the press is far from fulfilling the watchdog role assigned it in democratic theory and popular imagination
