Ritual and Cult at Ugarit Dennis Pardee, 2002 The Ugaritic ritual texts which date to ca 1200 B C E provide the only extensive body of pre biblical data on cultic practice in Syria Palestine This volume aimed at biblical scholars and historians of religion contains the original texts a general introduction an English translation and interpretative notes for each text Paperback edition is available from the Society of Biblical Literature www.sbl-site.org God in Translation Mark S. Smith, 2008 Mark S Smith charts the many cases of deities recognized across cultures in the Late Bronze Age Ancient Israel and early Judaism and the New Testament This cross cultural recognition took place in identifications or equations of deities of different cultures for example in lists of deities and in representations of different deities of various cultures acting together e g deities of different cultures serving as guarantors of and witnesses to international treaties The context of translatability of deities in the Late Bronze Age and Iron Age Israel supported international political relations In the Iron Age the worldview of regional deities on par with one another lost its intelligibility in the face of Neo Assyrian empire ideology In turn Israel expressed its worldview of a single god powerful over all As a result biblical writers and scribes engaged in a sophisticated hermeneutics to mediate between older expressions of translatability embedded within its emergent monotheistic expressions The Greco Roman period witnessed an explosion in the types and genres of cross cultural discourse about deities and as a result Jewish authors and some New Testament sources responded to this sort of discourse sometimes negatively and at other times quite positively Engagement with other cultures helped Israel come to understand its god and Canaanite Issam K. H. Halayqa, 2008 I K H Halayqa investigates lexical correspondences of Ugaritic and Canaanite. Ugaritic was a spoken and written language in an area adjacent to various Canaanite dialects such as the language of the El Amarna letters from the city states in Syria Lebanon and Palestine and Phoenician in Lebanon. Ugaritic was still a spoken language in the El Amarna period to which Old Canaanite belongs. Therefore the generic relationship between Ugaritic and Canaanite cannot be dispensed. It therefore seems appropriate to compare etymologically all the Ugaritic lexemes to those of the Northwest Semitic languages in particular with the Canaanite branch. The position of the Ugaritic language among the Northwest Semitic languages remains a question of lively debate. Ugaritic has been grouped with Amorite, Canaanite, Arabic and Old South Arabic. It has even been considered early Hebrew or early Phoenician or has been seen as a separate Northwest Semitic language distinct from Canaanite and Aramaic. Nevertheless, neither general acceptance nor satisfactory classification has been firmly established. The process of searching and investigating all the possible Canaanite correspondences for 2254 Ugaritic lexemes has led to the emergence of our lexicon which contains 1643 certain and uncertain lexemes. 1302/341. In other words of 2254 lexemes only 1643 have been found with certain and uncertain Canaanite cognates.
