Connecting America Barry Leonard, 2010-11 Broadband is the great infrastructure challenge of the early 21st century. Broadband is a foundation for economic growth, job creation, global competitiveness, and a better way of life. The number of Americans who have broadband at home has grown from 8 million in 2000 to nearly 200 million last year. But 100 million Americans do not have broadband at home. In early 2009, Congress directed the FCC to develop a National Broadband Plan to ensure that every American has access to broadband capability. This plan must also include a strategy for achieving affordability and maximizing use of broadband. The plan presented here ensures that the entire broadband ecosystem—networks, devices, content, and applications—is healthy.

Science and gender equality are, however, essential to ensure sustainable development, as highlighted by UNESCO. In order to change traditional mindsets, gender equality must be promoted, stereotypes defeated, and girls and women should be encouraged to pursue STEM careers. Therefore, Frontiers in Pharmacology is proud to offer this platform to promote the work of women scientists at different stages in their career all over the world and across all fields of Pharmacology. The work presented here highlights the diversity of research performed across the entire breadth of Pharmacoepidemiology research and presents advances in theory, experiment, and methodology with applications to compelling problems. For this Topic, we will be welcoming manuscripts covering post-marketing observational studies on medications, post-marketing studies in populations routinely excluded from clinical trials such as children, pregnant women, and the elderly, observational studies on First Nations, racialized groups, and immigrant populations, real-world evidence using large population-based administrative or clinical databases, pharmacoepidemiologic real-world evidence methodology, novel pharmacoepidemiologic methodology such as artificial intelligence and deep learning models, pharmaco-economic studies.
