Progress in Plant Growth Regulation C.M. Karssen, L.C. van Loon, D. Vreugdenhil, 2012-12-06 The current growing interest of molecular biologists in plant hormone research is undoubtedly the most promising development of recent times Many papers were presented during the 14th International Conference on Plant Growth Substances illustrating the impact of this new approach on our understanding of hormone controlled processes The specific character is the integrated study of plant growth regulation at all levels ranging from single molecules to the entire plant and its functioning in the environment Hormones play an essential role in the regulation but not an exclusive one Other compounds and factors such as Ca^{2+} for instance are often of equal relevance because they may take part in the signal transduction pathway Moreover regulation of the regulator by non hormonal factors is an essential part of any control mechanism The present volume reflects the change in interest from plant growth substances to plant growth regulation

Phytohormones in Soils Microbial Production & Function Jr., 2020-01-29 Details the various physiological responses in plants caused by microbially derived phytohormones examining the microbial synthesis of the five primary classes of plant hormones Exploring novel methods for improving symbiotic associations vital for plant growth and development

Target Sites of Herbicide Action Peter Boger, Gerhard Sandmann, 1989-07-31 This publication is based on the plant processes and reaction sites for which reliable knowledge on both their physiology and biochemistry and the mode of herbicidal action is available Targets of the agrochemical research such as enzymes of biosynthetic pathways or herbicide binding peptides in the photosynthetic membrane are highlighted Detailed knowledge about the target sites will allow biochemical model systems to evaluate the biological activity of newly synthesized compounds before their conventional screening in the greenhouse Quantitative structure activity relationships should be performed more reliably with simple biological species or enzymology assays to aid in the rational design of pesticides This text is highly valuable for plant physiologists pathologists and chemists in the agrochemical industry and universities Progress in Botany Karl Esser, 2012-12-06 This series keeps scientists and advanced students specialized on a particular subject informed of the latest developments and results in all different areas of botany The present volume includes reviews on structural botany physiology genetics taxonomy geobotanic as well as a contribution treating seed dispersal Plant Bioregulators in Horticulture, 1994 Nobumasa Nito, Norman Earl Looney, Donald J.
