Plant Genetic Resources Of Legumes In The Mediterranean:

Plant Genetic Resources of Legumes in the Mediterranean Nigel Maxted, Sarita Jane Bennett, 2013-03-14 Genetic erosion that is the loss of native plant and genetic diversity has been exponential from the Mediterranean Basin through the Twentieth century This careless eradication of species and genetic diversity as a result of human activities from a hot spot of diversity threatens sustainable agriculture and food security for the temperate regions of the world Since the early 1900s there has been a largely ad hoc movement to halt the loss of plant diversity and enhance its utilisation The Convention on Biological Diversity and Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations International Undertaking on Plant Genetic Resources both highlight the need to improve conservation methodologies and enhance utilisation techniques It has been argued that the most important component of biodiversity is the genetic diversity of crop and forage species used to feed humans and livestock These cultivated and related wild species provides the raw material for further selection and improvement Leguminosae species are of major economic importance peas chickpeas lentils and faba beans as well as numerous forage species and provide a particularly rich source of protein for human and animal foods Their distribution is concentrated in the Mediterranean region and therefore the improvement of their conservation and use in the region is critical This text is designed to help ensure an adequate breadth of legume diversity is conserved and to help maximise the use of that conserved diversity The subjects of conservation and use of legume diversity the Mediterranean ecosystem and taxonomy of legumes are introduced Generic reviews of the taxonomy centre of diversity ecogeographic distribution genetic diversity distribution conservation status conservation gaps and future research needs are provided along with a discussion of the importance of rhizobia to the maintenance of legume diversity Current ex situ and in situ conservation activities as well current legume uses are reviewed In conclusion future priorities for ex situ and in situ plant genetic conservation and use of Mediterranean legumes are highlighted All contributors look forward rather than simply reviewing past and current activities and therefore it is hoped that the identification of genetic erosion location of taxonomic and genetic diversity and promotion of more efficient utilisation of conserved material will be enhanced Genetic Resources of Mediterranean

Pasture and Forage Legumes Sarita Bennett, P.S. Cocks, 1999-01-31 Genetic Resources of Mediterranean Pasture and Forage Legumes is a comprehensive review of grassland improvement in Mediterranean areas using legume species The book includes a detailed account of the processes involved in understanding the ecology of legumes and their collection in the Mediterranean through to their preliminary evaluation and storage at various Genetic Resource Centres A generic conspectus and key to the forage legumes of the Mediterranean basin is also included These proceedings are truly international with examples on the collection and use of Mediterranean genetic resources being illustrated by Genetic Resource Centres in Australia Cyprus France Greece Syria Turkey and Tunisia Current important issues such as the sustainability of Mediterranean grasslands the risk of genetic erosion and the principles of population genetics employed during a collecting mission are discussed The book will be of value to researchers working in the fields of grassland and rangeland improvement Mediterranean farming systems genetic resources and pasture and forage ecology Grain Legumes Antonio M. De Ron, 2015-08-27 This book is devoted to grain legumes and include eight chapters devoted to the breeding of specific grain legume crops and five general chapters dealing with important topics which are common to most of the species in focus Soybean is not included in the book as it is commonly considered an oil crop more than a grain legume and is included in the Oil Crops Volume of the Handbook of Plant Breeding Legume species belong to the Fabaceae family and are characterized by their fruit usually called pod Several species of this family were domesticated by humans such as soybean common bean faba bean pea chickpea lentil peanut or cowpea Some of these species are of great relevance as human and animal food Food legumes are consumed either by their immature pod or their dry seeds which have a high protein content Globally grain legumes are the most relevant source of plant protein especially in many countries of Africa and Latin America but there are some constraints in their production such as a poor adaptation pest and diseases and unstable yield Current research trends in Legumes are focused on new methodologies involving genetic and omic studies as well as new approaches to the genetic improvement of these species including the relationships with their symbiotic rhizobia

Grasslands Stephen Reynolds, 2019-05-14 This book looks at significant current grassland problems and issues and provides an insight into grassland productivity in diverse areas of the world with their various production systems There is a focus on recent technical advances and the prospects for further innovation through twenty one chapters by eminent grassland scientists grouped i Bibliography on Access to Plant Genetic Resources and Intellectual Property Rights ,

The Ex Situ Conservation of Plant Genetic Resources J. G. Hawkes, Nigel Maxted, B.V. Ford-Lloyd, 2000-10-31 It is a distressing truism that the human race during the last millennium has caused the exponential loss of plant genetic diversity throughout the world This has had direct and negative economic political and social consequences for the human race which at the same time has failed to exploit fully the positive benefits that might result from conserving and exploiting the world s plant genetic resources However a strong movement to halt this loss of plant diversity and enhance its utilisation for the benefit of all humanity has been underway since the 1960 s Frankel and Bennett 1970 Frankel and Hawkes 1975 This initiative was taken up by the Convention on Biological Diversity CBD 1992 that not only expounds the need to conserve biological diversity but links conservation to exploitation and development for the benefit of all Article 8 of the Convention clearly states the need to develop more effective and efficient guidelines to conserve biological diversity while Article 9 along with the FAO International Undertaking on Plant Genetic Resources promotes the adoption of a complementary approach to conservation that incorporates both ex situ and in situ techniques Report of a Working Group on Grain Legumes L. Maggioni, 2002 Orphan Crops for Sustainable Food and Nutrition Security Stefano Padulosi, E.D. Israel Oliver King, Danny Hunter, M.S. Swaminathan, 2021-09-22 Orphan Crops for Sustainable Food and Nutrition Security discusses the issues challenges needs and opportunities related to the promotion of orphan crops known also as neglected and underutilized species NUS The book is structured into six parts covering the following themes introduction to NUS approaches methods and tools for the use enhancement of NUS integrated conservation and use of minor millets nutritional and food security roles of minor millets stakeholders and global champions and building an enabling environment Presenting a number of case studies at the regional and country levels the chapters cover different but highly interlinked aspects along the value chains from acquisition and characterization of genetic diversity cultivation and harvesting to value addition marketing consumption and policy for mainstreaming Cross cutting issues like gender capacity building and empowerment of vulnerable groups are also addressed by authors Representatives from communities research for development agencies and the private sector also share their reflections on the needs for the use enhancement of NUS from their own perspectives This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of food security sustainable agriculture nutrition and health and development as well as practitioners and policymakers involved in building more resilient food and production systems
