The plants that feed the world Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2023-08-29 The availability of comprehensive and reliable information is crucial for developing evidence based policies and strategies for the conservation and use of plant genetic resources for food and agriculture Information on food and agricultural crops on their use interdependence demand supply and security is increasingly available but scattered through a number of information systems databases and scientific literature This study was undertaken by a team of international experts to pool together information from a wide range of sources in a user friendly manner and to develop a reproducible set of metrics and indicators complementing existing indicators The main global database sources consulted include FAOSTAT the Data Store of the International Treaty FAO WIEWS Genesys PGR GBIF PlantSearch the Svalbard Global Seed Vault s SeedPortal UPOV s PLUTO database and NCBI s Entrez database The resulting metrics were organized into five domains crop use interdependence demand supply and security The study includes findings about the importance of the Multilateral System of Access and Benefit sharing of the International Treaty the primary global operational mechanism to exchange plant germplasm needed for research and breeding around the world while pointing at gaps and possibilities to enable its growth A number of vignettes complete the study with information on contemporary issues on crop conservation and use to further showcase how the management of plant genetic diversity is evolving at present It is hoped that this publication will support countries researchers breeders and other stakeholders in prioritizing activities implementing multilateral frameworks and leading policy discussions related to plant genetic resources for food and agriculture

Women Working In The Environment Carolyn E. Sachs, 2014-02-25 Based on theoretical insights from ecofeminism women and development and postmodernism and the convincing empirical work of numerous scholars this book is organized around five aspects of gender relationships with the environment Part I gender divisions of labor Part 2 property rights Part 3 knowledge and strategies for sustainability Part 4 environmental and social movements and Part 5 policy alternatives Examining women s relationship with the environment using these five dimensions provides concrete material examples of how women work with control know and affect the environment and natural resources

Methods for Risk Assessment of Transgenic Plants Klaus Ammann, Yolande Jacot, Richard Braun, 2012-12-06 For centuries TK has been used almost exclusively by its creators that is indigenous and local communities Access to use of and handing down of TK has been regulated by local laws customs and tmditions Some TK has been freely accessible by all members of an indigenous or local community and has been freely exchanged with other communities other TK has only been known to particular individuals within these communities such as shamans and has been handed down only to particular individuals of thc next generation Over many generations indigenous and local communities have accumulated a great deal of TK which has generally been adapted developed and improved by the generations that followed For a long time Western anthropologists and other scientists have generally been able to freely access TK and have documented it in their works Still this TK was only seldom used outside the indigenous and local communities that created it More recently however Western scientists have become aware that TK is neither outdated nor valueless knowledge but instead 1 can be useful to solve some of the problems facing today s world Modern science for example has shown an increased interest in some forms of TK as knowledge that can be used in 4 research and development R D activities and be integrated in modern innovations This holds especially true for TK regarding genetic resources which has been integrated in modern 6 pharmaceuticals s agro chemicals and seed

Vegetables and Fruits ,1999 Green Planet Stanley A Rice,2009-01-28 Plants are not just a pretty part of the landscape they keep the entire planet with all of its human and nonhuman inhabitants alive Stanley Rice documents the many ways in which plants do this by making oxygen regulating the greenhouse effect controlling floods and producing all the food in the world Plants also create natural habitats for all organisms in the world With illustrations and clear writing for non specialists Green Planet helps general readers realize that if we are to rescue the Earth from environmental disaster we must protect wild plants Beginning with an overview of how human civilization has altered the face of the Earth particularly by the destruction of forests the book details the startling consequences of these actions Rice provides compelling reasons for government officials economic leaders and the public to support efforts to save threatened and endangered plants Global campaigns to solve environmental problems with plants such as the development of green roofs and the Green Belt Movement a women s organization in Kenya that empowers communities worldwide to protect the environment show readers that efforts to save wild plants can be successful and beneficial to the economic well being of nations Through current scientific evidence readers see that plants are vital to the ecological health of our planet and understand what can be done to lead to a better and greener future Benefits of plants Help modulate greenhouse gases Produce almost all oxygen in the air Create cool shade that reduces energy costs Prevent floods droughts and soil erosion Produce all of the food in the world Create and preserve soil Create natural habitats Heal the landscape after natural and human disasters

Plants that Feed the World Rose Epstein Frisch,1969 Discusses flowering plants of the Old and New Worlds which provide food to meet the varied needs of people in different regions Special Reference Briefs ,1983 Feeding the World's Population ,1984 Abstract This most comprehensive review of the world s food supply status since the Rome 1974 World Food Conference records and analyzes major world food activities and programs over the past 10 years surveys food situations currently faced world wide and regionally and provides a prognosis for feeding the world s populations Global food grain inventories and food production are more comfortable relative to food demand than predicted 10 years ago However agricultural prices and production levels are too variable to accurately and quantitatively project the world food situation over the coming 10 year period The report examines what has happened during the past decade in areas of agricultural development production trade and aid and focuses on changes that have taken place in the major geographical regions of the Third World Public policy proposals made at the 1974 Conference are reviewed and the evolution of both institutions and policies for agricultural development and food aid promotion is examined and discussed The evolution of analytical thinking on the dynamics of agricultural change over the past decade is reviewed in detail wz Report ,1891 The Useful Plants of India Heber Drury,1873 Allergenicity of Foods Produced by Genetic Modification Dean D.
