The Celtic Tiger: A Critical Analysis of Ireland's Economic Boom Susan Jähn, 2005-09-13 Seminar paper from the year 2004 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Culture and Applied Geography grade 1.3 A Technical University of Chemnitz course The Making and Remaking of Ireland language English abstract Ireland's economic history does not really have many success stories to tell It is mainly dominated by stagnation and decline and a high dependence on Great Britain During the 18th and 19th century Ireland's economic performance was rather weak According to Bradley 1999: 42 the industrial revolution which was a general boom for most parts of Great Britain was only concentrated in a few Irish sectors such as brewing linen and shipbuilding and mainly only in Belfast and Dublin In the middle of the 20th century during the so called protectionist period Ireland's economic situation did not improve Import quotas and high tax barriers were responsible for a poor regional competitive position of the country The Republic of Ireland was an unattractive rural and backward investment location with serious problems such as high unemployment and low standards of living Then almost overnight Ireland's economic performance changed rapidly The formerly isolated country started to become equal among the other nations in Europe and the world Due to foreign investment a significant and fast economic growth in key sectors such as information technology helped to transform the former weak Irish economy in one of Europe's most successful economies Thus the Republic of Ireland not only became more advanced than the United Kingdom it also replaced its former traditional and depressing image by a modern and cosmopolitan one This economic miracle in Ireland during the 1990s is called the Celtic Tiger a name which points at the economic strength of the Asian countries Hong Kong Singapore Taiwan and South Korea However it appears evident that such a rapid and successful development of a formerly weak economy not only bears advantages Recent discussions in the literature have shown that concerning Ireland's economic boom appearances are deceptive John Gormley uttered the above mentioned quotation in the 200th issue of the Resurgence Magazine Online In all probability Ireland's success story could not have been looked at from a more critical point of view Gormley hints at the short livedness of the Celtic Tiger era and moreover stresses that all that glitters is not gold The Bibliographer's Manual of English Literature William Thomas Lowndes, 1871 China and the WTO - A Critical Analysis Junzhai Ma, 2012-11-30 Diploma Thesis from the year 2007 in the subject Economics Case Scenarios grade 2.0 University of Tübingen language English abstract This paper gives an analysis of China's entry process into the WTO and an assessment on China's accession commitment The most important aspect of China s performance and implementation is then analysed The paper researches the impact that the WTO membership has brought to China and the world The impact on rule of law is researched and the impact on trade growth as well as employment are analysed
