Anderson,2018-10-11 This book assesses the causes and consequences of environmental change in East Africa asking whether local African communities are sufficiently resilient to cope with the ecological and social challenges that confront them It focuses on the savannas of the Baringo Bogoria basin and the surrounding highlands of Kenya s northern Rift Valley that form the social ecological system of the specialised cattle pastoralists and niche agricultural farmers who occupy these semi arid lands Historical studies of resilience spanning the past two centuries are linked with analysis of current environmental challenges and the ecological social economic and political responses mounted by local communities The authors question whether the most recent challenges confronting the peoples of eastern Africa s savannas intensified conflicts mounting poverty driven by demographic pressures and dramatic ecological changes brought by invasive species might soon led to a collapse in essential elements of the specialised cattle pastoralism that dominates the region requiring a re orientation of the social ecological system This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Eastern African Studies West Pokot County Kenya. Ministry of Devolution and Planning,2013 Pokot Masculinity Kjartan Jónsson,2006 How is masculinity formed and transmitted between generations among the Pokot people in Kenya and what are the most important male values The author Kjartan J nsson lived and worked among the Pokot people for more than 11 years as a pastor and researched their life and religion especially the rituals men go through from birth to death The initiation rituals are the most important particularly circumcision as the initiates stay in special circumcision camps for up to three and a half months with mature men who teach them how men should live and the values of the Pokot male society. Rituals often reflect the importance of cattle in the life of the Pokot people as cattle are the chief form of wealth and also serve as ritual sacrifices. A rich man can afford to have many wives and children who serve as an important labour force tending to the man's wealth. All this gives him power and respect in society. Pokot men finally have one goal to prolong their lives as ancestral spirits which is only possible if they have sons who provide them with progeny for which they become guardian spirits. The author's material on the Pokot people is put into the context of African traditional religion and theories of anthropology and science of religions about rituals. Integrating Science and Policy Roger E Kasperson, 2012-08-06

As progress towards a greater knowledge in sustainability science continues the question of how better to integrate scientific progress with actual decisions made by practitioners remains paramount. This book aims to help close the gap between science and practice. Based on a two year collaborative project between Harvard and Clark Universities the book takes as its focus the vulnerability and resilience of people around the world to the effects of environmental change a mature area of research in which one might expect the gap between science and policy practice to have been extensively bridged. The book presents analysis of past studies interviews conducted with the producers and users of scientific knowledge and case studies performed by leading scholars across a spectrum of international settings and political systems. Crucially the authors identify new directions and tools for closing the gap between science and policy across a range of situations and societies. The result is an illuminating collection of studies and analyses that suggest to researchers students practitioners and policy makers alike how best to ensure that high quality environmental research informs good environmental policy and practice.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS The editors and authors are grateful to Lu Ann Pacenka who formatted the text of the book. The editors also wish to express their appreciation to Bill Clark and Nancy Dickson of Harvard University who commissioned and provided oversight for the preparation of the volume. Both editors and authors wish to express their appreciation to the David and Lucile Packard Foundation for providing funds to support the project. Finally the editors are grateful for the continuing support of the George Perkins Marsh Institute at Clark University.

Published with Science in Society Local Governance and Poverty in Developing Nations Nicky Pouw, Isa Baud, 2013-06-17

This volume examines the persistence of poverty both rural and urban in developing countries and the response of local governments to the problem exploring the roles of governments NGOs and CSOs in national and sub national agenda setting policy making and poverty reduction strategies. It brings together a rich variety of in depth country and international studies based on a combination of original data collection and extensive research experience in developing countries. Taking a bottom up and multi dimensional perspective of poverty and well being as the starting point the authors develop a convincing set of arguments for putting the priorities of poor people first on any development agenda thus carving out an undisputable role for local governance in interplay with higher up governance actors and institutions. The Palgrave Handbook of Peace, Conflict and Security Studies in Africa Elias O.
