Political Representation Participation In Transitional Democracies Estonia Latvia Lithuania Sodertorn Academic Studies 1:

Post-Soviet Civil Society Anders Uhlin, 2006-03-20 The development of civil society has varied greatly across the former Soviet Union The Baltic states have achieved a high level of integration with the West and European Union membership while some regions in Russia lag far behind Now for the first time there is a comparative study of civil society and democratization across post Soviet national borders Acknowledging the enormous variation throughout the region the book offers unique data on developments in Russia Estonia Latvia and Lithuania Applying an innovative analytical framework derived from theories of democratization civil society social movements and transnational relations the researchers have formulated broader comparisons and generalisations without neglecting the specific post Soviet context The book provides a systematic comparison across sectors as well as nations and includes chapters on NGOs the state and conflict and transnationalisation Quantitative survey data is combined with qualitative interviews and case study research to both confirm previous findings about the weakness of post communist civil society and to qualify previous research Landmark 1989 Heinrich Best, Agnieszka Wenninger, 2010 The year 1989 marks an upheaval in Central and Eastern Europe and stands for a radical change in such spheres as society economy politics and culture in this region This volume presents a collection of articles and analyses exploring a broad range of aspects of post 1989 developments ranging from historical legacies and politics of history changing values and mentality old and new inequalities elites and European integration written by recognised social scientists from both Eastern and Western Europe The chapters included in the volume present not only recent advances and findings but also state of the art of research and emerging trends and future challenges in the above mentioned areas

Political Representation and Participation in Transitional Democracies Elfar Loftsson, Yonhyok Choe, 2003 This volume describes the transformation of the three Baltic States to liberal democracies and discusses to what extent the new institutions that have come into existence enjoy popular support It is an empirical study based on a survey conducted in 1999 to test hypotheses derived from representation and participation theories Each chapter contains a discussion of the theoretical implications found in the Baltic context The three Baltic societies are on the verge of a transition towards a more consolidated and stable system in which the rule of law is widely accepted as a democratic principle However there are nostalgic sentiments among those who were deeply involved in the Soviet system and among those who have been disadvantaged by the new system Direct Democracy in the Baltic States Evren Somer, 2015 In the Baltic States referendums are being activated either automatically by public authorities or by the citizens In each republic however there are several citizen unfriendly legal obstacles that do not only restrict the use of these democratic tools but also lead to a poor performance in generating binding popular decisions
