Policing And Victims:

Policing and Victims Laura J. Moriarty, 2002 When victims contact the police they expect immediate results How do police know how to handle victims possibly the most important yet neglected component of the criminal justice system Policing and Victims is the first book that specifically shows police how to help victims of crime In Policing and Victims Dr Laura J Moriarty and co authors show that when police know how to work successfully with victims everyone benefits cases are more likely to be solved victims are more satisfied with the police and police departments gain respect within their communities Policing and Victims a book long overdue will help police officers understand victimology in a policing context will help them understand how to deal with specific victim situations such as rape and domestic violence and will give them additional resources that are crucial to victim recovery This text will help strengthen the communication between police and crime victims and can help the reader become a better police officer Policing & Firearms Clare Farmer, Richard Evans, 2022-10-31 Policing and firearms it is a crucial relationship Should police be routinely armed If so what restrictions should be imposed on the use of firearms Where police are not routinely armed there is still a need for specialist armed police how do these units operate and are they effective This ground breaking edited book explores the nexus between policing and firearms with a genuinely international focus Contributors from Ireland Germany the United Kingdom Brazil Mexico the United States Venezuela New Zealand Australia and Canada explore the issues from a range of perspectives including human rights militarization police legitimacy and the risks police firearms pose to the community and to police themselves This thought provoking collection is an indispensable resource for law enforcement policymakers and students of policing and criminal justice Encyclopedia of Victimology and Crime Prevention Bonnie S. Fisher, Steven P. Lab, 2010-02-02 Victimology and crime prevention are growing interrelated areas cutting across several disciplines Victimology examines victims of all sorts of criminal activity from domestic abuse to street violence to victims in the workplace who lose jobs and pensions due to malfeasance by corporate executives Crime prevention is an important companion to victimology because it offers insight and techniques to prevent situations that lead to crime and attempts to offer ideas and means for mitigating or minimizing the potential for victimization In many ways the two fields have developed along parallel yet separate paths and the literature on both has been scattered across disciplines as varied as sociology law and criminology public health and medicine political science and public policy economics psychology and human services and more The Encyclopedia of Victimology and Crime Prevention provides a comprehensive reference work bringing together such dispersed knowledge as it outlines and discusses the status of victims within the criminal justice system and topics of deterring and preventing victimization in the first place and responding to victims needs Two volumes containing approximately 375 signed entries provide users with the most authoritative and comprehensive reference resource available on victimology and crime prevention both in terms of breadth and depth of coverage In addition to standard entries leading scholars in the field have contributed Anchor Essays that in broad strokes provide starting points for investigating the more salient victimology and crime prevention topics A representative sampling of general topic areas covered includes interpersonal and domestic violence child maltreatment and elder abuse street violence hate crimes and terrorism treatment of victims by the media courts police and politicians community response to crime victims physical design for crime prevention victims of nonviolent crimes deterrence and prevention helping and counseling crime victims international and comparative perspectives and more

Negotiating Domestic Violence Carolyn Hoyle,1998 This book examines the factors which shape the criminal justice response to domestic violence in the light of policy changes at the beginning of the 1990s which aimed to increase arrest rates In particular the book discusses the needs and expectations of victims and examines how their choices impact on decisions made by police and prosecutors Many books on the criminal justice response to domestic violence start from the premise that withdrawal of complaints by victims and the subsequent discontinuance of cases represents some kind of failure on the part of the agencies involved and that victims would benefit from greater determination by police to prosecute offenders wherever possible Implicit in this approach is the assumption that the criminal justice system as it presently operates is capable of responding effectively to the needs of victims of domestic violence This book throws doubt on the validity of these assumptions

Victimology Leah E. Daigle,2017-06-21 Victimology A Text Reader Second Edition engages students with the most current cutting edge articles published in the field of victimology as well as connects them to the basic concepts Unlike existing victimology textbooks this unique combination of published articles with original material presented in a mini chapter format puts each topic into context so students can develop a better understanding of the extent causes and responses to victimization Students will build a foundation in the history and development of the field of victimology will be shown the extent to which people are victimized and why will learn the specific types of victimization and will witness the interaction between the criminal justice system and victims today

The Encyclopedia of Police Science Jack R. Greene,2007 First published in 1996 this work covers all the major sectors of policing in the United States Political events such as the terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 have created new policing needs while affecting public opinion about law enforcement This third edition of the Encyclopedia examines the theoretical and practical aspects of law enforcement discussing past and present practices that experience it Topics include An overview of what is known about the psychological and cultural factors relevant to understanding of HBV Gaps in current knowledge and the strengths and weaknesses of various investigative and management strategies Factors related to risk assessment of HBV Best practices based on the authors experience for individuals involved in all levels of policing HBV from first responders to those involved in strategic management How working in partnership with multiple agencies can reduce risk support investigations and help protect victims The importance of sensitivity toward differences in race culture and religion The research and best practices are drawn largely from the work done by the Violent Crime Directorate of the Metropolitan Police Service London UK managed by authors Gerry Campbell and Glen Lloyd The accessible style of this text makes it a valuable resource for law enforcement and policing professionals who investigate these crimes and a suitable textbook for policing and criminal justice courses FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin ,2000 Federal Register ,1999-10-06 Society's Victims - The Police William H. Kroes,1985-06-01 Policing America Anthony M. Platt,Lynn Cooper,1974 This is an anthology whose general viewpoint is that police act largely as a state arm for counterinsurgency encouraged by a growing police industrial complex The readings in the book develop the thesis that during the last 100 years police have become an enforcement arm for economic and political interest associated with the capitalistic system both in America and third world countries where the U S has investments The development of electronic criminal information systems and surveillance apparatus under law enforcement assistance administration grants is considered a dangerous trend toward a police industrial complex It is suggested that police forces should become increasingly decentralized under community and neighborhood control The Student's Handbook of Forensic Medicine and Medical Police Henry Aubrey Husband,1874 The Journal of Criminal Law, Criminology and Police Science ,1957 Policing Sexual Assault Jeanne Gregory,Sue Lees,1999 This study uses case studies and interviews to find out why when the number of rape cases has almost trebled since 1985 the proportion of cases resulting in a conviction has fallen The Victim of Rape and the Criminal Justice System Julia R. Schwendinger,1975 Policing and Public Trust Eccy de Jonge,2020-11-24 The treatment of victims and complainants by the police is examined in this pioneering new work Case studies based on interviews carried out at the University of Portsmouth s Institute of Criminal Justice Studies in the United Kingdom reveal that victims and complainants are routinely discredited by police agencies Whilst in the United States victims may include anyone subjected to police interrogation particularly those of African American origin complainants across the globe may include victims of rape bereaved families and individual officers The reason why certain victims and complainants are targeted by policing agencies is complex and leads to an investigation into police bias covert practices and one of the most common areas of policing road death investigations Consequently other members of the criminal justice system such as prosecutors coroners and hospital pathologists medical examiners are shown to often corroborate the police s version of events compromising victims rights and the very nature of justice Given recent miscarriages of justice and public relation campaigns on behalf of the police Eccy de Jonge argues that never before has a greater openness on the inner workings of the police been needed to fully support the interests of those the criminal justice system is meant to serve Community Resources for Victims of Crime Karen Williams,1983 Report and Proceedings of the Senate Committee Appointed to Investigate the Police Department of the City of New York New York (State).
