Shalom and Combat Albert H. van den Heuvel, Albert van den Heuvel, 1979 The Oxford Handbook of Military Psychology Janice H. Laurence, Michael D. Matthews, 2012-02-24 The critical link between psychology and the military is important to recruiting training socializing assigning employing deploying motivating rewarding maintaining managing integrating retaining transitioning supporting counseling and healing military members These areas are hardly distinct and the chapters in The Oxford Handbook of Military Psychology have contents that cross these boundaries Collectively the topics covered in this volume describe the myriad ways in which modern psychology influences warfare and vice versa The extensive topics included come from within the areas of clinical industrial organizational experimental engineering and social psychology The contributors are top international experts in military psychology some uniformed soldiers others academics and clinicians and others civilian employees of the military or other government agencies They address important areas in which the science and practice of psychology supports military personnel in their varied and complex missions Among the topics addressed here are suitability for service leadership decision making training terrorism socio cultural competencies diversity and cohesion morale quality of life ethical challenges and mental health and fitness The focus is the ways in which psychology promotes the decisive human dimension of military effectiveness Collectively the 25 topical chapters of this handbook provide an overview of modern military psychology and its tremendous influence on the military and society as a whole

Shalom and Combat Albert Van den Heuvel, 1977 Why We Fight Robert C. Engen, H. Christian Breede, Allan English, 2020-12-17 For decades the Canadian Armed Forces has used the work of foreign scholars and writers in its professional military education to try to understand the human dimension of warfare why and how people are motivated to fight and how they behave once they do fight Yet the specific Canadian context experience and perspective are often lost in favour of appeals to universal truths The first major Canadian study of combat motivation in almost forty years Why We Fight redresses this imbalance by presenting some of the best new work on the subject Bringing together top military practitioners and scholars to discuss some of the most controversial issues of modern warfare Why We Fight examines the face of battle as experienced by Canadians It explores sexual violence in war professionalism organizations leadership shared intent motivation in extremis and the toxicity of the warrior culture Its chapters offer key insights on combat motivation theories the modern operating environment and the collective and individual identities of the men and women who fight for Canada Many worry that technology is leading us towards a post human age particularly in war Why We Fight affirms the centrality of the human being in warfare in Canada's past present and future

Families Under Fire R. Blaine Everson, Charles R. Figley, 2011-01-07 As provider networks on military bases are overwhelmed with new cases civilian clinicians are increasingly likely to treat military families However these clinicians do not receive the same military mental healthcare training as providers on military installations adding strain to clinicians workloads and creating gaps in levels of treatment Families

Under Fire fills these gaps with real world examples clear concise prose and nuts and bolts approaches for working with military families utilizing a systems based practice that is effective regardless of branch of service or the practitioner's therapeutic preference Any civilian mental health practitioner who wants to understand the diverse needs of military personnel their spouses and their families will rely on this indispensable guidebook for years to come Women and Gender Perspectives in the Military Robert Egnell, Mayesha Alam, 2019-02-01 Women and Gender Perspectives in the Military compares the integration of women gender perspectives and the women peace and security agenda into the armed forces of eight countries plus NATO and United Nations peacekeeping operations This book brings a much needed crossnational analysis of how militaries have or have not improved gender balance what has worked and what has not and who have been the agents for change The country cases examined are Sweden the Netherlands Canada the United States the United Kingdom Israel Australia and South Africa Despite increased opportunities for women in the militaries of many countries and wider recognition of the value of including gender perspectives to enhance operational effectiveness progress has encountered roadblocks even nearly twenty years after United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 kicked off the women peace and security agenda Robert Egnell Mayesha Alam and the contributors to this volume conclude that there is no single model for change that can be applied to every country but the comparative findings reveal many policy relevant lessons while advancing scholarship about women and gendered perspectives in the military Lilith, 2001 A Guide to Political Censorship in South Africa Louise Silver, 1984 Positive or mitigating factors Studia Rosenthaliana, 1989 Ras Shamra Parallels Loren R.
