Aelian's Historical Miscellany is a pleasurable example of light reading for Romans of the early third century Offering engaging anecdotes about historical figures retellings of legendary events and descriptive pieces in sum amusement information and variety Aelian's collection of nuggets and narratives could be enjoyed by a wide reading public A rather similar book had been published in Latin in the previous century by Aulus Gellius Aelian is a late perhaps the last representative of what had been a very popular genre Here then are anecdotes about the famous Greek philosophers poets historians and playwrights myths instructively retold moralizing tales about heroes and rulers athletes and wise men reports about styles in dress foods and drink lovers gift giving practices entertainments religious beliefs and death customs and comments on Greek painting Some of the information is not preserved in any other source Underlying it all are Aelian's Stoic ideals as well as this Roman's great admiration for the culture of the Greeks whose language he borrowed for his writings

The Karoo W. Richard J. Dean,Suzanne Milton,1999-06-24 The succulent and Nama karoo form part of the arid south western zone of Africa a vast region of rugged landscapes and low treeless vegetation Studies of this unique biome have yielded fascinating insights into the ecology of its flora and fauna This book originally published in 1999 is the first to synthesise these studies presenting information on biogeographic patterns and life processes form and function of animals and plants foraging ecology landscape level dynamics and anthropogenic influences Detailed analyses of the factors distinguishing the biota of the Karoo from that of other temperate deserts are given and generalisations about semi arid ecosystems challenged The ideas expounded the ecological principles reviewed and the results presented are relevant to all those working in the extensive arid and semi arid regions of the world A Botanist in Southern Africa John Hutchinson,1946 Afrika Florenwerke Mediterranean-Type Ecosystems F.J. Kruger,D.T. Mitchell,J.U.M. Jarvis,2012-12-06 The theory of ecological convergence underlies the biogeographers maps of world biome types It also determines the degree to which ecological principles derived from research on particular populations communities or ecosystems are generally valid and hence also to what extent resource management principles are general To quote Di Castri and Mooney 1973 In effect in order to assess the transfer of technology it is essential to know to what extent information acquired from studying one particular ecosystem is applicable to another ecosystem of the same type but situated in a different location The five relatively small isolated mediterranean climate zones of the earth each with its distinct fauna and flora have provided the ideal testing grounds for this theory A heritage of precisely focused ecosystems research has resulted beginning with the international comparative analyses conducted by Specht 1969a b but with antecedents in earlier studies in South Australia Specht and Rayson 1957 Specht 1973 Cody and Mooney 1978 reviewed the information available at the time for the four zones excepting Australia and concluded that the arrays of strategy types to be found among the different biotas were so similar that they could be explained only in terms of the convergence hypothesis nevertheless evident differences in community organization and dynamics especially phenology required closer study of resource availability and resource use patterns to better explain relations between form and function overall and to assess the degree of convergence at higher levels of organization than the population Indian Journal of Forestry ,2001 Bibliographie der Rezensionen ,1927
