Accounting in Politics Mahmoud Ezzamel, Noel Hyndman, Åge Johnsen, Irvine Lapsley, 2008-06-11 This book looks at the effectiveness of the 1999 restructuring of the UK through the establishment of the Scottish Parliament and the Assemblies for Northern Ireland and Wales considering the process of devolution and its consequences on the key mechanisms of accounting and democratic accountability Many of the chapters in this book examine whether devolution is enhancing democratic accountability or creating a fragmentary state with conflict and tensions between the Westminster government and the devolved bodies The focus is on the financial mechanisms for democratic accountability both in the UK and in international comparator countries New Zealand Norway and the US This book examines the turbulent pattern of relationships between central and devolved government and explores whether the present arrangements for devolution in the UK represent an end game or whether they may be merely a stepping stone to a more fully fledged federal state It is argued that the main thrust of many of the financial reforms in the UK has confounded obfuscated and complicated the desire for democratic accountability

Reforming Public Management and Governance John Halligan, 2020-05-29 This book examines the impact of several decades of public sector reform in four Westminster systems Australia Canada New Zealand and the United Kingdom Political and managerial change has re defined roles and relationships and how their public sectors function Often this occurs in comparable ways because of a common administrative tradition but choices made in different country contexts also produce divergent outcomes In analysing the results and implications of reform fundamental issues of and tensions in public administration and management are addressed

Targeting Commitment Rodney Scott, Ross Boyd, 2022-03-08 New Zealand's deceptively simple but effective program to improve public services New Zealand has long been considered at the forefront of public administration experimenting with new ways of organizing and delivering public services Even so successive New Zealand governments had mixed results from using traditional public management tools to lift the performance of the public service and address persistent problems that required multi agency action In 2012 the government decided to try something different As part of a reform package called Better Public Services the government challenged the public service to organize itself around achieving just ten results that had proven resistant to previous interventions The plan was deceptively simple set ambitious targets and publicly report on progress every six months hold small groups of public managers collectively responsible use lead indicators and learn from both success and failure This book explores how and why the New Zealand government made progress and how the program was able to create and sustain the commitment of public servants and unleash the creativity of public entrepreneurs The authors combine case studies based on the experience of people involved in the change together with public management research They explain how ambitious targets and public accountability were used as levers to overcome the bureaucratic barriers that impeded public service delivery and how data evidence and innovation were used to change practice New Zealand experimented failed succeeded and learned from the experience over five years This New Zealand experience demonstrates that interagency performance targets are a potentially powerful tool for fostering better public services and thus improving social outcomes
