Planning For Colleges And Universities:

Guidelines for Planning in Colleges and Universities Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, Charles Pinnell, Michael Wacholder, 1968      Strategic Change in Colleges and Universities Daniel James Rowley, Herman D. Lujan, Michael G. Dolence, 1997-02-24 In Strategic Change in Colleges and Universities the Rowley Lujan and Dolence show how the strategic planning process can lead to more constructive and effective change within the college and university environment Solidly grounded in theory this practical book builds on the authors experience of successfully implementing an original strategic planning approach on a variety of campuses in the United States and Canada This powerful model works well in the wide range of higher educational settings provides a consistent framework that unifies all levels involved and is effective in keeping diverse groups of decision makers focused on the most important elements of the organization s success The authors outline step by step a strategic planning process that is uniquely tailored to the needs of academic settings where multiple constituencies require a more collaborative planning approach than is used in corporations Strategic Change in Colleges and Universities is filled with illustrative examples that clearly show how the authors strategic planning principles which they describe as a strategic planning engine work in practice The book also discloses practical and realistic methods of navigating the political land mines that often obstruct the development of a strategic plan and its implementation Offering clear directions on the many components of a successful implementation strategy the authors show how to encourage communication gain the backing of top leaders and develop campuswide support This collaborative model of strategic planning which unlike other approaches used in academe results in rather than starts from the institution s mission statement Each campus applies the same principles developing its own method of planning to match its institution s particular needs and characteristics Strategic Change in Colleges and Universities is written for those charged with strategic planning presidents chancellors vice presidents Details a strategic planning approach that has proved effective in institutions across the country The authors address the complex nature of stakeholders and conflicting purposes in an academic setting

Strategic Planning for Colleges and Universities John C. Merson, Robert L. Qualls, 1979      Planning for Colleges and Universities Stephen D. Hogan, Harold E. Knight, 1987      Planning Models for Colleges and Universities David S. Hopkins, 1981-06 Drawing on the authors extensive experience at Stanford University as well as the work of others this first systematic approach to fiscal and human resource planning in colleges and universities shows how decision models can and should become an integral part of the planning process The authors first discuss the uses and misuses of planning models in general and the principles and methodologies for developing such models They then describe many specific models that have proved to be useful at Stanford and elsewhere in solving immediate problems and establishing long term goals These models cover such diverse programs as medium and long range financial forecasting estimating resource requirements and the variable costs of programs long run financial equilibrium and the transition to equilibrium faculty appointment promotion and retirement policies predicting student enrollments and applying value judgments to financial alternatives The final chapter discusses the applicability of Stanford based planning models to other schools

Campus Planning Richard P. Dober, 1964

University Planning and Architecture Jonathan Coulson, Paul Roberts, Isabelle Taylor, 2010-09-23

The environment of a university what we term a campus has long been the setting for some of history's most exciting experiments in the design of the built environment Christopher Wren at Cambridge Thomas Jefferson at Virginia Le Corbusier at Harvard Louis Kahn at Yale and Norman Foster in Berlin the calibre of practitioners that have worked for universities is astounding This book comprehensively documents the worldwide evolution of university design from the Middle Ages to the present day uncovering the key developments which have shaken the world of campus planning A series of detailed and highly illustrated case studies profile universally acclaimed campuses that through their planning architecture and landscaping have succeeded in making positive contributions to the field Drawing on these examples the book turns to the strategies behind campus planning in today's climate Exploring the importance of themes such as landscape architecture place making and sustainability within university development the book consolidates the lessons learnt from the rich tradition of campus development to provide a good practice guide for anyone concerned with planning environments for higher education

A Short Course for Trustees on Strategic Planning in Higher Education Society for College and University Planning (Ann Arbor, Mich.), Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges, 1985 The course is designed for all trustees but especially for those from institutions which are giving initial or renewed attention to the planning function As a result of attending the course participants should achieve an understanding of the fundamentals of planning within the college university and community college setting and an awareness of how the planning function may be organized and executed in each of those types of academic institutions Special attention will be directed toward the integration of academic fiscal and facilities planning toward a review of the similarities and differences as between planning for a business and planning for an academic institution and toward the proper role of a board member in institutional planning This course for trustees is an especially designed version of a standard program offering of the Society for College and University Planning Description of the Course and Objectives p 2

Academic Planning Daniel James Rowley, Herbert Sherman, 2004-03-12 Academic Planning examines the importance of building a college or university academic plan alongside the institution's strategic plan

While the strategic plan outlines the various strategies the campus has chosen to make itself more financially stable and compatible with crucial external controls the most significant offerings of a campus are its academic products research teaching service and intellectual products It seems apparent that both plans should be developed alongside each other but evidence suggests that in many cases they are developed independently In this book the authors contend that this is a fundamental mistake     Planning and Designing Schools C.
