Pulling Back From The Nuclear Brink Reducing And Countering Nuclear Threat:

The Atomic Bomb and American Society Rosemary B. Mariner, G. Kurt Piehler, 2009 Drawing on the latest research on the atomic bomb and its history the contributors to this provocative collection of eighteen essays set out to answer two key questions First how did the atomic bomb a product of unprecedented technological innovation rapid industrial scale manufacturing and unparalleled military deployment shape U S foreign policy the communities of workers who produced it and society as a whole And second how has American society's perception that the bomb is a means of military deterrence in the Cold War era evolve under the influence of mass media scientists public intellectuals and even the entertainment industry In answering these questions The Atomic Bomb and American Society sheds light on the collaboration of science and the military in creating the bomb the role of women working at Los Alamos the transformation of nuclear physicists into public intellectuals as the reality of the bomb came into widespread consciousness the revolutionary change in military strategy following the invention of the bomb and the development of Cold War ideology the image of the bomb that was conveyed in the popular media and the connection of the bomb to the commemoration of World War II As it illuminates the cultural social political environmental and historical effects of the creation of the atomic bomb this volume contributes to our understanding of how democratic institutions can coexist with a technology that affects everyone even if only a few are empowered to manage it Rosemary B Mariner is formerly Joint Chiefs of Staff Chair and Professor of Military Studies for the National War College She is currently a lecturer in history at the University of Tennessee Knoxville G Kurt Piehler is associate professor of history and former director of the Center for the Study of War and Society at the University of Tennessee Knoxville which hosted the conference that formed the basis of this volume He is the author of Remembering War the American Way and World War II in the American Soldiers Lives Series as well as the coeditor with John Whiteclay Chambers II of Major Problems in American Military History

Future War and Counterproliferation Barry R. Schneider, 1999-02-28 The United States faces a small number of rogue states that either have or are working to acquire weapons of mass destruction These NASTIs or NBC Arming Sponsors of Terrorism and Intervention include such states as North Korea Iraq Iran Libya and Syria U S nonproliferation programs and policies have helped to keep this number small but U S and allied counterproliferation programs are essential to reduce the danger It is up to deterrence active defenses passive defenses decontamination and counterforce to turn enemy weapons of mass destruction into instruments of limited destructive effect Warfighters will also have to adopt a different strategy and concept of operations in fighting an adversary that is so heavily armed This strategy will feature a combination of deception dispersion mobility and maneuver diffused logistics remote engagement missile defense bubbles non combatant evacuation operations and large area decontamination It will also involve upgrades to NBC passive defense measures and equipment as well as a counterforce capability that can find and destroy a variety of adversary targets including mobile launchers and deeply buried and hardened underground structures United States Post-Cold War Defence Interests K. Magyar, 2004-04-30 With the end of the Cold War the security concerns of the USA the sole Superpower in the new international order became fragmented and proliferated throughout the world Since September 11 2001 and the war in Iraq the US has had to evaluate new global developments in terms of the threats they pose to regional and global stability The nature of the potential enemy is difficult to anticipate United States Post Cold War Defence Interests gathers together seasoned analysts to examine traditional military concerns and responses to the new environment Psychology of a Superpower Christopher Fettweis, 2018-05-15 With the collapse of the Soviet Union the United States was left as the world's sole superpower which was the dawn of an international order known as unipolarity The ramifications of imbalanced power extend around the globe including the country at the center What has the sudden realization that it stands alone atop the international hierarchy done to the United States In Psychology of a Superpower Christopher J Fettweis examines how unipolarity affects the way U S leaders conceive of their role make strategy and perceive America's place in the world Combining security strategy and psychology Fettweis investigates how the idea of being number one affects the decision making of America's foreign policy elite He examines the role the United States plays in providing global common goods such as peace and security the effect of the Cold War's end on nuclear weapon strategy and policy the psychological consequences of unbalanced power and the grand strategies that have emerged in unipolarity Drawing on psychology's insights into the psychological and behavioral consequences of unchecked power Fettweis brings new insight to political science's policy analysis toolkit He also considers the prospect of the end of unipolarity offering a challenge to widely held perceptions of American indispensability and asking whether the unipolar moment is worth trying to save Psychology of a Superpower is a provocative rethinking of the risks and opportunities of the global position of the United States with significant consequences for U S strategy character and identity Progress in International Law Miller, Rebecca M. Bratspies, 2008-06-30 Progress in International Law is a comprehensive accounting of international law for our times Forty leading international law theorists analyze the most significant current issues in international law and their critical assessments draw diverse conclusions about the current state and future prospects of international law The material is grouped under the headings The History and Theory of International Law The Sources of International Law and Their Application in the United States International Actors International Jurisdiction and International Jurisprudence The Use of Force and the World's Peace and The Challenge of Protecting the Environment and Human Rights The book draws its inspiration from a similar survey undertaken in 1932 by Harvard Law Professor and PCIJ Judge Manley O Hudson In his book Progress in International Organization Hudson sought to demonstrate that what he perceived as an emerging international infrastructure and as moves toward the rule of law in international affairs were sure signs of human progress towards peace and cooperation Progress in International Law critically engages with that claim as a normative matter and at the same time presents the evidence by which a judgment about our own progress towards peace and cooperation might be judged New Global Dangers Michael Edward Brown, 2004 Command of the commons the military foundation of U S Hegemony Barry R Posen Why do states build nuclear weapons Three models in search of a bomb Scott D Sagan Never say never again nuclear reversal revisited Ariel E Levite Preventing nuclear entrepreneurship in Russia's nuclear cities Sharon K Weiner Pathogens as weapons the international security implications of biological warfare Gregory Koblentz Dreaded risks and the control of biological weapons Jessica Stern Beyond the MTCR building a comprehensive regime to contain ballistic missile proliferation Dinshaw Mistry Human security paradigm shift or hot air Roland Paris Security stability and international migration Myron Weiner HIV AIDS and the changing landscape of war in Africa Stefan Elbe Collateral damage humanitarian assistance as a cause of conflict Sarah Kenyon Lischer Market civilization and its clash with terror Michael Moussseau T Pulling Back from the Nuclear Brink Barry R. Schneider, William L. Dowdy, 1998 The contributors to this book including policymakers diplomats scientists regionalists and academic specialists have joined in an effort to survey nuclear arms control successes ongoing initiatives and future prospects for reducing and countering nuclear proliferation Nuclear Proliferation A. M. Babkina, 2002 Since the nuclear genie was let out of the bottle nuclear weapons have been the exclusive domain of a select few countries At the dawn of the next millennium however the notion that small countries and even a few individuals many acquire and use them or threaten to is a major concern This annotated bibliography presents citations of the current book and journal literature which deal with this dangerous issue Access is provided through subject author and titles indexes Michigan Journal of International Law, 2006 Naval War College Review Naval War College (U.S.), 2000 Nuclear Weapons Policy at the Crossroads Darryl A. Howlett, 2000 This study examines the factors that will shape states nuclear weapons policies this century It discusses and evaluates the influence of key strategic relationships military threats and technological developments domestic factors changing concepts of security and the evolution of arms management and limitation regimes It analyzes various types of disarmament and arms control strategies and the verification techniques and frameworks that might sustain them Against this background the paper identifies four possible nuclear futures and assesses the capabilities and limitations of the tools which might prevent the emergence of a high salience nuclear future In association with Mountbatten Centre for International Studies University of Southampton Naval War College Review, 2000 Avoiding the Abyss Jim A. Davis, Barry R. Schneider, 2005 Airpower Journal, 1999 Aerospace Power Journal, 1999 Expeditionary Diplomacy William L. Dowdy, 2001 During the Cold War U S Air Force units typically operated either from bases on American territory or from main operating bases MOBs in allied countries where access was assured under long accepted arrangements In the decade following the end of the Cold War the number of MOBs abroad has been drastically reduced and most remaining USAF assets have been pulled back to bases in U S territory Meanwhile given changes in the international security environment and consequent adjustments in U S national security strategy Air Force units have increasingly been required to deploy to and operate from forward locations in many countries outside of the Cold War alliance structure Under the nascent Expeditionary Aerospace Force EAF concept gaining access to and maintaining positive relations with host countries are prerequisites to successful expeditionary operations This study was inspired by the view stated at Air University in 1999 by then Maj Gen Donald G Cook first EAF Implementation Director that beta diplomatic preparation of the battlefield gamma is a neglected concept and enterprise that should receive more attention from EAF architects As the first and only systematic study of beta diplomatic preparation gamma this Research Paper selectively surveys existing and prospective USAF initiatives that attempt to come to grips with political military beta pol mil gamma challenges associated with expeditionary operations Air University abstracts

Testing the Aerospace Expeditionary Force Concept William L. Dowdy, 2000 During the period 1995-97 the deployment of four Aerospace Expeditionary Forces AEFs to Bahrain Jordan and Qatar x2 served as useful tests of the AEF concept first broached in its latter day incarnation soon after Operation Vigilant Warrior in the Persian Gulf in 1994 Responding to a manifest need to be able to rapidly deploy aerospace power to deter or to halt aggression against U S interests abroad USAF leadership has designed and implemented a new organizing concept for service culture and operations the Expeditionary Aerospace Force EAF The deployments of AEFs I-IV to the Middle East provided experience data and lessons learned that have since been incorporated into the EAF design Based on available unclassified information this study first comparatively considers the strengths and weaknesses of the aerospace expeditionary force concept evinced in the four deployments of 1995-97 Then factoring in additional accounts of participants and the views of other writers the author mines the accumulated evidence for analytical insights around six issue categories planning diplomatic preparation force protection logistics command and control and training and education The study concludes that force protection and logistics are the most vexing challenges confronting architects and implementers of the EAF concept Force protection may indeed prove to be too hard and too expensive in some cases The Journal of Military History, 1998 Includes scholarly articles and book reviews on topics in military history Critical Masses and Critical Choices Kerry G. Herron, Hank C. Jenkins-Smith, 2006 Examines American attitudes on issues of national and international security Based on over 13 000 in depth interviews conducted over a ten year period Provides surprising insights into public opinion on nuclear deterrence terrorism and other security issues Middle East Security Issues Barry R. Schneider, 1999 The ten authors of the essays in this study examine issues that the US must address if its national security policy in the Middle East is to be well informed In NBC and Missile Proliferation in the Middle East Lawrence Scheinman summarizes the nuclear biological and chemical weapons capabilities and missile systems of Egypt Iran Iraq Israel Libya and Syria Scheinman argues that that stability in the region is best served by universal adherence to treaties to prevent the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction WMD Anthony R Cordesman in his essay Recent Developments in the Persian Gulf looks at both the conventional and WMD military balance between the states in the region He assesses the volume of arms transfers to each state in the region and their impact on balance of power in the region In Arab Perspectives on Middle Eastern Security Ibrahim A Karawan concludes that the lack of success in curbing the spread of nuclear weapons in the Middle East is not surprising Karawan asserts that the proliferation of chemical and biological weapons among Arab and Middle East states is a natural deterrence response Avner Cohen in Regional Security and Arms Control in the Middle East The Nuclear Dimension explains the diametrically opposite approaches taken by the two sides in the arms control and regional security negotiations Cohen asserts that the future of nuclear arms control in the region will depend on progress toward the settlement of the Arab Israeli conflict and the evolution of politics and society in states outside the region In The Egyptian Israeli confrontation over the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty W Andrew Terrill compares and contrasts the Egyptian and Israeli views of how best to achieve a nuclear free zone in the Middle East
