Simulation Based Inference In Econometrics:

Simulation-based Inference in Econometrics Roberto Mariano, Til Schuermann, Melvyn J. Weeks, 2000-07-20 This substantial volume has two principal objectives First it provides an overview of the statistical foundations of Simulation based inference This includes the summary and synthesis of the many concepts and results extant in the theoretical literature the different classes of problems and estimators the asymptotic properties of these estimators as well as descriptions of the different simulators in use Second the volume provides empirical and operational examples of SBI methods Often what is missing even in existing applied papers are operational issues Which simulator works best for which problem and why This volume will explicitly address the important numerical and computational issues in SBI which are not covered comprehensively in the existing literature Examples of such issues are comparisons with existing tractable methods number of replications needed for robust results choice of instruments simulation noise and bias as well as efficiency loss in practice

Simulation based inference in econometric Roberto Mariano, Melvyn J. Weeks, Til Schuermann, 2000 Handbook of Econometrics J.J. Heckman, Edward Leamer, 2001-11-22 The Handbook is a definitive reference source and teaching aid for econometricians It examines models estimation theory data analysis and field applications in econometrics Comprehensive surveys written by experts discuss recent developments at a level suitable for professional use by economists

Econometric Inference Using Simulation Techniques Herman K. van Dijk, Alain Monfort, Bryan W. Brown, 1995-07-11 This book provides a comprehensive assessment of the latest simulation techniques and examines the three main areas of econometric inference where the use of simulation methods has been successful Bayesian inference classical inference and the solution and stochastic simulation of dynamic econometric models in particular general equilibrium models

Simulation-based Econometric Methods Christian Gouriéroux, Alain Monfort, 1997-01-09 This book introduces a new generation of statistical econometrics After linear models leading to analytical expressions for estimators and non linear models using numerical optimization algorithms the availability of high speed computing has enabled econometricians to consider econometric models without simple analytical expressions The previous difficulties presented by the presence of integrals of large dimensions in the probability density functions or in the moments can be circumvented by a simulation based approach After a brief survey of classical parametric and semi parametric non linear estimation methods and a description of problems in which criterion functions contain integrals the authors present a general form of the model where it is possible to simulate the observations They then move to calibration problems and the simulated analogue of the method of moments before considering simulated versions of maximum likelihood pseudo maximum likelihood or non linear least squares The general principle of indirect inference is presented and is then applied to limited dependent variable models and to financial series

The Econometrics of Panel Data László Mátyás, Patrick Sevestre, 2008-04-06 This restructured updated Third Edition provides a general overview of the econometrics of panel data from both theoretical and applied viewpoints Readers discover how econometric tools are used to study organizational and household behaviors as well as other macroeconomic phenomena such as economic growth The book contains sixteen entirely new chapters all other chapters have been revised to account for recent developments With contributions from well known specialists in the field this handbook is a standard reference for all those involved in the use of panel data in econometrics

The Econometrics of Panel Data László Mátyás, Patrick Sevestre, 2013-12-01 The aim of this volume is to provide a general overview of the econometrics of panel data both from a theoretical and from an applied viewpoint Since the pioneering papers by Edwin Kuh 1959 Yair Mundlak 1961 Irving Hoch 1962 and Pietro Balestra and Marc Nerlove 1966 the pooling of cross sections and time series data has become an increasingly popular way of quantifying economic relationships Each series provides information lacking in the other so a combination of both leads to more accurate and reliable results than would be achievable by one type of series alone Over the last 30 years much work has been done investigation of the properties of the applied estimators and test statistics analysis of dynamic models and the effects of eventual measurement errors etc These are just some of the problems addressed by this work In addition some specific difficulties associated with the use of panel data such as attrition heterogeneity selectivity bias pseudo panels etc have also been explored The first objective of this book which takes up Parts I and II is to give as complete and up to date a presentation of these theoretical developments as possible Part I is concerned with classical linear models and their extensions Part II deals with nonlinear models and related issues logit and probit models latent variable models duration and count data models incomplete panels and selectivity bias point processes and simulation techniques
