Pioneer Tobacco Merchant In The Orient:

A Pioneer Tobacco Merchant in the Orient James A. Thomas, 1928 Chinese Business Enterprise Rajeswary Ampalavanar Brown, 1996 A Pioneer Tobacco Merchant in the Orient James A. Thomas, 1928 Big Business in China Sherman Cochran, 1980 This is the first major study in Chinese business history based largely on business's own records. It focuses on the battle for the cigarette market in early twentieth-century China between the British American Tobacco Company based in New York and London and its leading Chinese rival Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company whose headquarters were in Hong Kong and Shanghai. From its founding in 1902, the British American Tobacco Company maintained a lucrative monopoly of the market until 1915 when Nanyang entered China and extended its operations into the country's major markets despite the use of aggressive tactics against it. Both companies grew rapidly during the 1920s and competition between them reached its peak but by 1930 Nanyang weakened bringing an end to serious commercial rivalry. Though less competitive, both companies continued to trade in China until their Sino foreign rivalry ended altogether with the founding of the People's Republic in 1949. Debate over international commercial rivalries has often been conducted broadly in terms of imperialist exploitation and economic nationalism. This study shows the usefulness and limitations of these terms for historical purposes and contributes to the separate but related debate over the significance of entrepreneurial innovation in Chinese economic history. By analyzing the foreign Chinese companies' business practices and by describing their involvement in diplomatic incidents, boycotts, strikes, student protests, relations with peasant tobacco growers, dealings with the Kuomintang and Chinese Communist Party and a host of other activities, the author brings to light the roles that big businesses played not only in China's economy but also in its politics, society, and foreign affairs.

Cigarettes, Inc. Nan Enstad, 2018-12-10 Traditional narratives of capitalist change often rely on the myth of the willful entrepreneur from the global North who transforms the economy and delivers modernity for good or ill to the rest of the world. With Cigarettes, Inc. Nan Enstad upends this story, revealing the myriad cross-cultural encounters that produced corporate life before World War II. In this startling account of innovation and expansion, Enstad uncovers a corporate network rooted in Jim Crow segregation that stretched between the United States and China and beyond. Cigarettes, Inc. teems with a global cast from Egyptian, American, and Chinese entrepreneurs to a multiracial set of farmers, merchants, factory workers, marketers, and even baseball players, jazz musicians, and sex workers. Through their stories, Cigarettes, Inc. accounts for the cigarette's spectacular rise in popularity and in the process offers nothing less than a sweeping reinterpretation of corporate power itself.

The Global Cigarette Howard Cox, 2000-03-16 During the 1880s, the tobacco manufacturing industries of Britain and America were revolutionized by the introduction of mechanized cigarette production. The development of this novel, image-laden product constituted a triumph for the methods of mass production and mass distribution in this most traditional of consumer goods industries. The Global Cigarette charts the way in which these innovations in manufacturing and marketing methods led to the formation in 1902 of the British American Tobacco Co as an Anglo American multinational joint venture designed to promote cigarettes in international markets Based on archive materials from a wide variety of sources including the company's own internal records this book provides the first authoritative account of BAT's evolution and growth up until the Second World War In particular The Global Cigarette shows the way in which the company developed a vast array of international operating subsidiaries explores how it managed these enterprises in different political and cultural contexts notably in China and India and analyses the way in which the company as a mature multinational enterprise coped with the severe international economic dislocations of the 1930s In the era of globalization this account of the operational and organizational arrangements of a prefigurative global company will shed light on current debates on alliances joint ventures and international business
