Pioneers Of Anglo Irish Fiction 1800 1850:

The Pioneers of Anglo-Irish Fiction, 1800-1850 Barry Sloan, 1986 The years 1800 1850 saw the emergence in Ireland of a number of novelists and story writers who took as their subject matter their native country its people and its social economic and political problems Their pioneering work is not only a unique record of life in rural Ireland in the late 18th and early 19th centuries before the disasters of the great famine in the 1840s changed many things irreversibly it also initiated a tradition of Anglo Irish fiction which in the twentieth century has achieved international stature and recognition It is comprehensive in scope considering not only the major writers Maria Edgeworth Lady Morgan the Banim brothers Gerald Griffin and William Carleton but also lesser figures such as Charles Maturin Mrs S C Hall Samuel Lover the early work of Charles Lever and Joseph Sheridan Le Fanu and other minor contributors There is also a chronology for the period from 1767 the year of Maria Edgeworth's birth up to 1850 It sets the lives and works of the novelists discussed in this book against the literary social and political contexts of their times both in Ireland and abroad A History of the Irish Novel Derek Hand, 2011-03-10 Derek Hand's A History of the Irish Novel is a major work of criticism on some of the greatest and most globally recognisable writers of the novel form Writers such as Laurence Sterne James Joyce Elizabeth Bowen Samuel Beckett and John McGahern have demonstrated the extraordinary intellectual range thematic complexity and stylistic innovation of Irish fiction Derek Hand provides a remarkably detailed picture of the Irish novel's emergence in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries He shows the story of the genre is the story of Ireland's troubled relationship to modernisation The first critical synthesis of the Irish novel from the seventeenth century to the present day this is a major book for the field and the first to thematically theoretically and contextually chart its development It is an essential entertaining and highly original guide to the history of the Irish novel Geschichte der anglo-irischen Literatur Heinz Kosok, 1990 A New History of Ireland: Ireland under the Union, II, 1870-1921 Daibhi O. Croinin, William Edward Vaughan, 2005 A New History of Ireland, Volume VI W. E. Vaughan, 2010-04-01 A New History of Ireland is the largest scholarly project in modern Irish history In 9 volumes it provides a comprehensive new synthesis of modern scholarship on every aspect of Irish history and prehistory from the earliest geological and archaeological evidence through the Middle Ages down to the present day Volume VI opens with a character study of the period followed by ten chapters of narrative history and a study of Ireland in 1914 It includes further chapters on the economy literature the Irish language music arts education administration and the public service and emigration The Language of Irish Literature Loreto Todd, 1989-06-19 The Language of Irish Literature is the first book on the market to discuss Irish Literature in terms of the history of and the linguistic contacts in the island It provides a description of the development of the varieties of English in Ireland concentrating on the input from Irish Gaelic and Scots as well as English It examines the history of English in Ireland the nature of Irish and of Irish Englishes oral traditions songs and stories and the three main literary genres drama poetry and prose The Irish through British Eyes Edward Lengel, 2002-05-30 The mainstream British attitude toward the Irish in the first half of the 1840s was based upon the belief in Irish improvableity. Most educated British rejected any notion of Irish racial inferiority and insisted that under middle class British tutelage the Irish would in time reach a standard of civilization approaching that of Britain. However the potato famine of 1846-1852 which coincided with a number of external and domestic crises that appeared to threaten the stability of Great Britain led a large portion of the British public to question the optimistic liberal attitude toward the Irish. Rhetoric concerning the relationship between the two peoples would change dramatically as a result. Prior to the famine the perceived need to maintain the Anglo Irish union and the subservience of the Irish was resolved by resort to a gendered rhetoric of marriage. Many British writers accordingly portrayed the union as a natural necessary and complementary bond between male and female maintaining the appearance if not the substance of a partnership of equals. With the coming of the famine the unwillingness of the British government and public to make the sacrifices necessary not only to feed the Irish but to regenerate their island was justified by assertions of Irish irredeemability and racial inferiority. By the 1850s Ireland increasingly appeared not as a member of the British family of nations in need of uplifting but as a colony whose people were incompatible with the British and needed to be kept in place by force of arms.

A New History of Ireland Theodore William Moody, Francis X. Martin, Francis John Byrne, 1976 A New History of Ireland in nine volumes provides a comprehensive new synthesis of modern scholarship on every aspect of Irish history and prehistory from the earliest geological and archaeological evidence through the middle ages down to the present day. Critical Approaches to Anglo-Irish Literature Michael Allen, Angela Wilcox, 1989 Critical Approaches to Anglo Irish Literature contains a selection of the papers given at the fifth triennial conference of the International Association for the Study of Anglo Irish Literature held in Belfast in 1985 chaired by Professor John Cronin. It includes essays on Brian Friel, Seamus Heaney, James Joyce, Patrick Kavanagh, J. S. Le Fanu, J. M. Synge and W. B. Yeats as well as papers on more general themes such as the critical condition of Ulster English political writers on Ireland, national character and national audience, autobiographical imagination and Irish literary autobiographies.

The Achievement of Literary Authority Ina Ferris, 2019-01-24 Although literary historians have largely neglected them, Sir Walter Scott's Waverley Novels mark a pivotal moment in the formation of the modern literary field. Ina Ferris argues exemplifying the complex intersections of gender and genre in the evolution of nineteenth century literary authority. Focusing on the critical reception of Scott's early works, Ferris shows how their extraordinary success propelled the novel from the margins of the culture into the literary hierarchy. Drawing on the insights of poststructuralist feminist and Bakhtinian theory, Ferris reconstructs reviewers' debates about fiction at several critical points in Scott's career. His literary authority and innovative power, she maintains, depended on the way in which his historical novels responded to the anxieties about discourse and modernity expressed in the literary reviews. Gender was a central source of anxiety and the manliness of Scott's historical novels was decisive in their legitimation of the novel It was largely through a problematic allegiance to the female genre of romance however that the Waverley Novels both recuperated fiction for male reading and helped to redefine for the nineteenth century the writing of history itself Ferris locates the Waverley Novels in relation to fiction and history by such contemporaries of Scott s as Maria Edgeworth Lady Morgan John Galt James Hogg Augustin Thierry and Thomas Babington Macaulay Students of the novel feminist critics and others interested in the relations between history and fiction will want to read The Achievement of Literary Authority

Nineteenth-century Literature Criticism Laurie Lanzen Harris,1981 Excerpts from criticism of the works of novelists poets playwrights short story writers and other creative writers who lived between 1800 and 1900 from the first published critical appraisals to current evaluations The Life of the Law Peter Birks,1993-01-01 The History of Verse

Translation from the Irish 1789-1897 Robert Welch,1988-08-12 This study surveys the course of verse translation from the Irish starting with the notorious Macpherson controversy and ending with the publication of George Sigerson s Bards of the Gael and Gall in 1897 Professor Welch considers some of the problems and challenges relating to the translation of Irish verse into English in the context of translation theory and ideas about cultural differentiation The Novel & the Nation

David Krause,2000 Complaining that 18th century Irish novelist William Carleton has been unfairly denigrated by academic critics the author attempts to explain why he believes that six possibly seven of Carleton s novels are major works that present a wide range of significant comic and tragicomic fictional accomplishments Each of the seven novels including Fardorougha the Miser Valentine M Clutchy The Black Prophet and The Tithe Proctor is accorded a separate chapter and later works and novellas are also given albeit somewhat shorter treatment The work of literary critic Bakhtin is a common analytical tool used throughout the text Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR
