Pluralism And Inequality In Quebec:

Pluralism and Inequality in Quebec Leslie S. Laczko, 1995 Explores how the Francophone and Anglophone communities in Quebec have responded to the shift in power between them as a state based nationalism has become established over the past quarter century Laczko sociology U of Ottawa draws on public opinion survey data and theoretical literature dealing with language ethnicity nationalism and social change to examine the restructuring of relations between the two communities the acceptance by English speakers of their minority status and the behavior of French speakers as the new socially and politically dominant group Compares Quebec to other places where such shifts rarely occur without violence Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR      The Two Solitudes Reexamined Leslie Stephen Laczko, 1981 The study provides an examination of the structure of the belief system of a segmented society and contributes to a systematic assessment of the relative utility of the two theoretical perspectives for an understanding of social change in plural societies

A World-Systems Reader Thomas D. Hall, 2000-03-01 This book brings together some of the most influential new research from the world systems perspective The authors survey and analyze new and emerging topics from a wide range of disciplinary perspectives from political science to archaeology Each analytical essay is written in accessible language so that the volume serves as a lucid introduction both to the tradition of world systems thought and the new debates that are sparking further research today      Social Inequality in Canada Alan Frizzell, 1996-05-15 Do Canadians believe they can succeed on the basis of their own abilities And how do they compare with Americans Germans Italians Australians and Russians There is much debate as to how Canadians differ from or resemble citizens of other countries particularly the United States Is it true that we are more tolerant and deferential than our southern neighbours or more accepting of the actions of government in our lives Do Quebecers view the world differently from other Canadians Do women see society differently from men Comparisons such as these approached through survey analysis yield up a true portrait of national identity Social Inequality in Canada brings a comparative perspective to the question of the uniqueness of Canadian society The challenges attending comparative attitudinal research led to the creation in 1980 of the International Social Survey Programme ISSP represented in Canada by the Carleton University Survey Centre Their data provide the basis for this vanguard study of international attitudes toward social inequality who s up who s down and who s responsible for changing society Social Inequality measures the consistency and logic of perceived social conditions and priorities in Canada compared with 18 other countries It is essential reading for social scientists and policy makers of every persuasion      Québec Studies, 1997      Doing Ethics in a Pluralistic World Phyllis D. Airhart, Marilyn J. Legge, Gary L. Redcliffe, 2002-05-30 Doing Ethics in a Pluralistic World is an apt title for this collection of essays in honour of Roger C Hutchinson who over many decades has encouraged and participated in shaping a Canadian contextual social ethics His abiding interest in social ethics and in religious engagement with public issues is reflected in his life s work seeking the consensus and self knowledge required to achieve cooperation in the search for a just participatory and sustainable society One of Roger Hutchinson's many notable accomplishments is his development of a method of dialogue for ethical clarification in situations of diversity Some of the essays collected here apply this method to specific issues while others discuss how religious persons and organizations can and do co-operate in a pluralistic world to achieve social and ecological well-being All essays are of keen interest to those concerned with the role and function of ethics at the matrix of religious conviction and social transformation For nearly three decades Roger Hutchinson has been based at Victoria University in Toronto first in religious studies then at Emmanuel College where he completed his teaching career as professor of church and society while serving as principal from 1996 to 2001

Canadian Book Review Annual, 1995

Culture, Citizenship, and Community Joseph H. Carens, 2000-03-09 This book contributes to contemporary debates about multiculturalism and democratic theory by reflecting upon the ways in which claims about culture and identity are actually advanced by immigrants national minorities aboriginals and other groups in a number of different societies Carens advocates a contextual approach to theory that explores the implications of theoretical views for actual cases reflects on the normative principles embedded in practice and takes account of the ways in which differences between societies matter He argues that this sort of contextual approach will show why the conventional liberal understanding of justice as neutrality needs to be supplemented by a conception of justice as evenhandedness and why the conventional conception of citizenship is an intellectual and moral prison from which we can be liberated by an understanding of citizenship that is more open to multiplicity and that grows out of practices we judge to be just and beneficial
