need as they write for college and beyond Rhetorical Traditions and the Teaching of Writing C. H. Knoblauch, Lil Brannon, 1984 The argument of this book is that the earliest tradition of Western rhetoric the classical perspective of Aristotle and Cicero continues to have the greatest impact on writing instruction albeit an unconscious impact This occurs despite the fact that modern rhetoric no longer accepts either the views of mind language and world underlying ancient theory or the concepts about discourse knowledge and communication presented in that theory As a result teachers are depending on ideas as outmoded as they are unreflectively accepted Knoblauch and Brannon maintain that the two traditions are fundamentally incompatible in their assumptions and concepts so that writing teachers must make choices between them if their teaching is to be purposeful and consistent They suggest that the modern tradition offers a richer basis for instruction and they show what teaching from that perspective looks like and how it differs from traditional teaching The Shape of Reason John T. Gage, 2000-07 This brief rhetoric of argument teaches critical reading informal reasoning and writing as reasoned inquiry and now features a mini anthology of arguments on civic and ethical issues The Shape of Reason emphasizes the enthymeme as the central basis for the invention and structure of arguments This approach blends classical insights into rhetorical reasoning with contemporary understandings of the composing process as generative and organic situated within discourse communities The book helps students understand argument as inquiry stressing the responsibility that writers have to their audience and to their own ideas in structuring arguments that earn their conclusions and in considering opposing arguments The Christian Union ,1875 Film & Video Finder ,1989 Outlook Alfred Emanuel Smith, Francis Walton, 1875
