Realm Of The Word Language Gender And Christianity In A Southern African Kingdom:

The Realm of the Word Paul Stuart Landau, 1995 This grassroots history of mission Christianity in colonial southern Africa treats religion and society as a coherent whole It shifts the focus away from European missionaries and African Christians and on to African evangelists schoolchildren healers and most of all Christian women The ideologies and practices of Christianity emerge as inseparable from a kingdom's construction of power in central Botswana a realm of the word premised not on western hegemony but instead on Tswana self rule Explorations in the Sociology of Language and Religion Tope Omoniyi, Joshua A. Fishman, 2006-01-01 Printbegrensninger Der kan printes 10 sider ad gangen og max 40 sider pr session Christianity and Public Culture in Africa Harri Englund, 2011-08-15 Christianity and Public Culture in Africa takes readers beyond familiar images of religious politicians and populations steeped in spirituality It shows how critical reason and Christian convictions have combined in surprising ways as African Christians confront issues such as national constitutions gender relations and the continuing struggle with HIV AIDS The wide ranging essays included here explore rural Africa and the continent's major cities colonial and missionary legacies and mass media images in the twenty first century They also reveal the diversity of Pentecostalism in Africa and highlight the region's remarkable denominational diversity Scholars and students alike will find these essays timely and impressive The contributors demonstrate how the public significance of Christianity varies across time and place They explore rural Africa and the continent's major cities and colonial and missionary situations as well as mass mediated ideas and images in the twenty first century They also reveal the plurality of Pentecostalism in Africa and keep in view the continent's continuing denominational diversity Students and scholars will find these topical studies to be impressive in scope Contributors Barbara M Cooper Harri Englund Marja Hinfelaar Nicholas Kamau Goro Birgit Meyer Michael Perry Kweku Okyerefo Damaris Parsitau Ruth Prince James A Pritchett Ilana van Wyk Zur tocharischen Syntax Werner Thomas, 1995 Domesticating a Religious Import Nicholas M. Creary, 2011 Catholic theologians have developed the relatively new term inculturation to discuss the old problem of adapting the church universal to specific local cultures Europeans needed a thousand years to inculturate Christianity from its Judaic roots Africans efforts to make the church their own followed a similar process but in less than a century Until now there has been no book length examination of the Catholic church's pastoral mission in Zimbabwe or of African Christians efforts to inculturate the church Ranging over the century after Jesuit missionaries first settled in what is now Zimbabwe this enlightening book reveals two simultaneous and intersecting processes the Africanization of the Catholic Church by African Christians and the discourse of inculturation promulgated by the Church With great attention to detail it places the history of African Christianity within the broader context of the history of religion in Africa This illuminating work will contribute to current debates about the Catholic Church in Zimbabwe and throughout Africa World Christianity and Indigenous Experience David Lindenfeld, 2021-05-20 In this book David Lindenfeld proposes a new dimension to the study of world history Here he explores the global expansion of Christianity since 1500 from the perspectives of the indigenous people who were affected by it and helped change it giving them active agency Integrating the study of religion into world history his volume surveys indigenous experience in colonial Latin America Native North America Africa and the African diaspora the Middle East India East Asia and the Pacific Lindenfeld demonstrates how religion is closely interwoven with political economic and social history Wide ranging in scope and offering a synoptic perspective of our interconnected world Lindenfeld combines in depth analysis of individual regions with comprehensive global coverage He also provides a new vocabulary with a spectrum ranging from resistance to acceptance and commitment to Christianity that articulates the range and complexity of the indigenous conversion experience Lindenfeld's cross cultural reflections provide a compelling alternative to the Western narrative of progressive development

Women in Twentieth-Century Africa Iris Berger, 2016-04-26 Explores the paradoxical image of African women as exceptionally oppressed but also as strong resourceful and rebellious

The Stolen Bible Gerald O. West, 2016-08-09 The Stolen Bible tells the story of how Southern Africans have interacted with the Bible from its arrival in Dutch imperial ships in the mid 1600s through to contemporary post apartheid South Africa The Stolen Bible emphasises African agency and distinguishes between African receptions of the Bible and African receptions of missionary colonial Christianity Through a series of detailed historical geographical and hermeneutical case studies the book analyses Southern African receptions of the Bible including the earliest African encounters with the Bible the translation of the Bible into an African language the appropriation of the Bible by African Independent Churches the use of the Bible in the Black liberation struggle and the ways in which the Bible is embodied in the lives of ordinary Africans

Christianity and the Colonisation of South Africa ...: 1867-1936 Charles Villa-Vicencio, John W. De Gruchy, Peter Grassow, 2009 As a new democratic society still being formed South Africa needs to look back and take stock of the key role of Christianity in its social formation Rather than provide a mere chronological account of events and devote equal space to various denominations John de Gruchy sets out to map and reflect the fact that some churches and Christian traditions have been far more influential in shaping South African society than others Working from some 3500 primary documents relevant to understanding the role of Christianity in forming South Africa dating from the mid seventeenth century the author offers an introduction to the final three decades of the nineteenth century and the beginnings of modernisation During this time the country was transformed from a primarily rural and traditional society into one which was increasingly urban industrial and capitalist This was also a moment of transition for Christian missionary endeavour and the formation of the colonial churches This volume set out not to explore the various theologies which have emerged in this period but rather to consider the way in which theology functioned in the construction of modern South Africa In this regard the most salient theological dimension concerns ecclesiology or the doctrine of the church This follows from the very nature of reading Christianity in view of the social history of South Africa Ecclesiology functions at the interface of theological conviction and social reality It seeks to describe both what the church should be and what it in fact is in day to day experience This gap between faith and reality is nowhere more evident than in the account presented in this volume But more so one of the most remarkable aspects of South African social history has been the interaction and parallels between ecclesiological praxis on the one hand and social and political formation on the other Book jacket     Journal of Theology for Southern Africa ,2002     Generations and Globalization Jennifer Cole,Deborah Lynn Durham,2007 A glimpse into how globalization shapes and is shaped by family life around the world     Domesticating a Foreign Import? Nicholas Matthew Creary,2004     Encyclopedia of Politics and Religion Robert Wuthnow,2007 The Encyclopedia of Politics and Religion traces the roots of the relationship between politics and religion from antiquity to today revealing how it has shaped public discourse social attitudes collective action and national and international policy particularly during the past two centuries     Slave Emancipation and Colonialism César Joaquín Solá-García,1999     Building a Community on the Zulu Frontier Nokuthula Peace Cele,2006     Encyclopedia of Africa South of the Sahara John Middleton,1997 Arranged alphabetically In addition to biographies extensive country information primarily postindependence and historical events the encyclopedia treats general topics in articles such as agriculture political systems and religion and ritual     Cotton, Colonialism, and Social History in Sub-Saharan Africa Allen F. Isaacman,Richard L. Roberts,1995 This interdisciplinary collection brings together some of the newest scholarship on the social history of agrarian change in Africa It provides an important entry into the lived experiences of millions of Africans who cultivated cotton often under duress during the colonial period The social history of cotton in Africa thus provides an opportunity to take a constant in the changing worlds of colonialism cotton and to explore the range of African experiences historically and geographically By linking cotton and colonialism in this way these eleven case studies open up new comparisons between different colonial agricultural policies different labor regimes and different forms of African response to colonial economic policies This study of cotton in colonial Africa highlights both the way industrial capitalism sought to call forth tropical raw materials and the ways this colonial project was shaped by the dynamic local processes of production exchange social reproduction and rural resistance
