Reason And The Search For Knowledge:

Reason and the Search for Knowledge D. Shapere, 2012-02-17 An impressive characteristic of Dudley Shapere's studies in the philosophy of the sciences has been his dogged reasonableness. He sorts things out with logical care and mastery of the materials and with an epistemological curiosity for the historical happenings which is both critical and respectful. Science changes and the philosopher had better not link philosophical standards too tightly to either the latest orthodox or the provocative upstart in scientific fashions and yet as critic the philosopher must not only master the sciences but also explicate their meanings not those of a cognitive never-never land. Neither dreamer nor pedant Professor Shapere has been able to practice the modern empiricist's exercises with the sober and stimulating results shown in this volume. He sees that he can be faithful to philosophical analysis, engage in the boldest rational reconstruction of theories and experimental measurements and faithful too empirically faithful. We may say to both the direct superhighways and the winding pathways of conceptual evolutions and metaphysical revolutions. Not least Shapere listens to Einstein and Galileo of course but to the workings of the engineers and the scientific apprentices too and to the various philosophers now and of old who have also worked to make sense of what has been learned and how that has happened and where we might go wrong.

Christian Education and the Search for Meaning James C. Wilhoit, 1991-05-01 James Wilhoit explores how Christian education can go beyond mere activity to instill a solid perspective and make sense of a perplexing world. He envisions the ideal model of Christian education and integrates the discipline with the social sciences. In the final chapter Wilhoit presents an evangelical theory of biblical instruction.

A Search for Wisdom and Spirit Anne E. Carr, 1988 Though not a systematic theologian Thomas Merton spent a lifetime writing in an immensely appealing way about the monastic tradition and mystical theology One of the fundamental questions he examined was that of the self for Merton the recovery of the true self is the liberation of the image of God in us This study explores that process in the context of a few of Merton's works showing his own development from pious hostility to the world to a more humbling acceptance of humanity The first full length appraisal of Merton as theologian this is well written
