Paperbound Books in Print ,1992 Rebuilding Together Multi Donor Fund for Aceh and Nias,2005 Personal Relationships: Repairing personal relationships Steve Duck,Robin Gilmour,1981 The Personal Relationships series has stimulated a great deal of interest in the rapidly developing area of personal relationship research this fifth and final volume aims to illustrate and synthesize the different principles that lie within the various approaches to repairing relationships It concentrates on two major themes first the importance of relationships as a support system second the possibility of repairing damaged or ineffective relationships this is of particular significance in the light of rising divorce statistics and the increase of long term social problems resulting from childhood relationship difficulties The book shows the profound practical impact of the current theoretical and empirical research on the repair of relationships and contains chapters dealing with specific problems such as loneliness drugs and their effect on relationships divorce and health The material is presented in such a way as to be of practical value to anyone working with relationship repair Social and clinical psychologists sociologists therapists and social workers will all find this volume invaluable Origin, Conservation, and Restoration of the Threatened European Grassland Ecosystem in the Anthropocene Grégory Mahy,Thierry Dutoit,Kathrin Kiehl,Armin Bischoff ,Péter Török,2024-11-07 Natural and Semi Natural Grassland Ecosystems NSG represent high value biodiversity hotspots for biodiversity of the European continent as well as an invaluable cultural heritage forged through millennia of human nature interactions While pristine natural European grasslands result mainly from constrained specific climatic and soil conditions semi natural grasslands largely result from the activities of humans and their livestock e g grazing mowing burning during millennia of low intensity land use European NSG their biodiversity and the cultural heritage they represent are highly threatened since the beginning of the 20th century in a context of multifactorial global change including environmental dimensions climate change habitat fragmentation pollution biological invasions and land use changes with the accelerating of socio economic evolution of agricultural practices intensification or abandonment and urbanization Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print ,1997 Marine Ecosystem Restoration (MER) - Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman,Avigdor Abelson,Christine Angelini,Gesche Krause,Megan Irene Saunders,Tjisse Van Der Heide,2023-10-23 Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances For example oyster reefs have declined by at least 85% coral reefs by 19% seagrasses by 29% North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction pollution invasive species overfishing trawling mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming species range changes and acidification These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever increasing human population Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection fisheries production and carbon storage over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors However with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems Habitat restoration although in existence for many decades has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat forming organisms e g oysters seagrasses corals In addition restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and or large corporations with the aim to for example fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences Such investments are being made to i provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns ii restore ecosystems destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices
