Playing A Jewish Game Gentile Christian Judaizing In The First And Second Centuries Ce:

Playing a Jewish Game Michele Murray, 2006-01-01 Is it possible that early Christian anti Judaism was directed toward people other than Jews Michele Murray proposes that significant strands of early Christian anti Judaism were directed against Gentile Christians More specifically it was directed toward Gentile Christian judaizers These were Christians who combined a commitment to Christianity with adherence in varying degrees to Jewish practices without viewing such behaviour as contradictory Several Christian leaders thought that these community members dangerously blurred the boundaries between Christianity and Judaism As such Gentile Christian judaizers became the target of much anti Jewish rhetoric in various early Christian writings Evidence of Gentile Christian judaizers can be found in canonical sources such as Paul's Letter to the Galatians and the Book of Revelation as well as non canonical sources such as the Epistle of Barnabas the Didache and Justin Martyr's Dialogue with Trypho In order to compare the phenomenon of judaizing and the reaction to it of ecclesiastical authorities Murray organizes the evidence by probable geographical location using Asia Minor and Syria as the two main loci The phenomenon of Gentile Christian judaizing is examined within the broader context of Jewish Christian relations in the early centuries and is the first attempt to draw all possible references to Gentile Christian judaizers together into one study to consider them as a whole This discussion invites readers to reflect on the existence of Gentile Christian judaizers as another point on the continuum of Jewish Christian relations in the Greco Roman world an area Murray concludes that needs to be more carefully defined

Cultural Translation and Receptions of Paul in the First Four Centuries a reception of the apostle Paul in subsequent Christian traditions and b the hypothesis that while Paul himself continued to think as a Jew he was subsequently reinterpreted by non Jews in non Jewish and anti Jewish ways the so called Paul within Judaism school The distinctive focus of this volume is on the dynamic of cultural translation meaning for example the translation from the cultural world of Diaspora Judaism and its Septuagint to Greek philosophical and Greek Christian categories The contributions to the book are diverse ranging from younger to more senior scholars from both North America and Europe

Luke Was Not A Christian: Reading the Third Gospel and Acts within Judaism Joshua Paul Smith, 2023-12-18 In this volume Joshua Paul Smith challenges the long held assumption that Luke and Acts were written by a gentile arguing instead that the author of these texts was educated and enculturated within a Second Temple Jewish context Advancing from a consciously interdisciplinary perspective Smith considers the question of Lukan authorship from multiple fronts including reception history and social memory theory literary criticism and the emerging discipline of cognitive sociolinguistics The result is an alternative portrait of Luke the Evangelist one who sees the mission to the gentiles not as a supersession of Jewish law and tradition but rather as a fulfillment and expansion of Israel's own salvation history

Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur, 2007 Exploring Early Christian Identity Bengt Holmberg, 2008 The main point of emphasis in the book is that approaching the Christian movement s early history through investigating its identity helps us to understand how the followers of Jesus developed from an intra Jewish messianic renewal movement into a new religion with a major Gentile membership and major differences from its Jewish matrix all in only a hundred years Identity is not simply a collection of beliefs that was agreed upon by many first century Christians It is embedded or rather embodied in real life as participation in the founding myths narrativized memory of and accepted teaching on Jesus in cults and rituals as well as in ethical teaching and behavioral norms crystallized into social relations and institutions This is a dynamic feedback process full of conflicts and difficulties both internal and caused by the surrounding society and culture The authors explore different aspects of identity such as how the Gospels narrativization of the social memory shapes and is shaped by the identity of the groups from which they emerge how labels such as Jewish and Christian should and should not be understood the identity forming role of behavioral norms in letters and the interplay between competing leadership ideals and the underlying unity of different Christian groups They also show that identity formation is not necessarily related to innovation in moral teaching nor averse to making use of ancient conventions of masculinity with their emphasis on dominance
