Gustave Caillebotte as Worker, Collector, Painter Samuel Raybone, 2020-09-17 Gustave Caillebotte was more than a painter he collected and researched postage stamps designed and built yachts administered and participated in the sport of yachting collected paintings cultivated and collected rare orchids designed and tended his gardens and engaged in local politics Gustave Caillebotte as Worker Collector Painter presents the first comprehensive account of Caillebotte's manifold activities It presents a completely new critical interpretation of Caillebotte's broad career that highlights the singular salience of work and which intersects histories and theories of visual culture ideology and psychoanalysis Where the recent art historical rediscovery of Caillebotte offers multiple narratives of his identification with working men this book goes beyond them towards excavating what his work was in its own terms Born to an haut bourgeois milieu in which he was never completely comfortable and assailed by traumatic familial bereavements Caillebotte adopted and adapted the ideologically normative category of work for his own purposes deconstructing its ostensibly class determinate parameters in order to bridge the chasm of his social alienation International Directory of Exhibiting Artists, 1982 More Than Meets the Eye, 1985 Reality of Illusion Denver Art Museum, 1979 Art contemporain dans la collection FCM, acquisitions 1977-1986 Migros-Genossenschafts-Bund, 1986 Library Catalog of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.). Library, 1962 Visual proficiency - A perspective on art education Kunibert Bering, Rolf Niehoff, 2015-12-18 Every day over a million images are uploaded to flickr This is a striking example of the so called flood of images that emerged with the beginning of the digital age A generation of adolescents has already been socialised with this flood of images and deals with it on a daily basis both in their networks and elsewhere Art education thus faces significant challenges art is the only school subject that deals with the problems inherent in images as images making them the focus of pedagogic activity This volume presents both the foundations for engaging with the phenomenon of the image in a competent and historically informed manner as well as the perspectives for art education that arise from these foundations It is based upon the conviction that providing orientation in a world defined by images does not mean following solely a technocratic functionalist or even neoliberal concept of education Quite the contrary providing an orientation for how to deal with images in a world that is dominated by them is a crucial part of the holistic development of young people's personalities The volume's main focus lies upon the new functions taken on both by the image and by art more generally It takes into account aspects of globalisation and participation and also includes more unusual views often from a cross media perspective of art and its historical repertory which even current image creation is unable to dispense with The volume also deals extensively with architecture and the images it conveys
