Rebuilding Community Policy And Practice In Urban Regeneration:

Urban Regeneration in the UK Andrew Tallon, 2009-08-21 Exploring the streets of London Manchester Belfast Edinburgh or Cardiff one cannot help but notice the striking transformations taking place in the urban landscapes This prominent regeneration of urban areas in the UK and around the world has become an increasingly important issue amongst governments and populations The growing concern has been a result of the impacts of the decline of cities since the collapse of manufacturing industries and the heightening of global competition A range of innovative approaches to tackle urban problems have been taken over many decades to attempt to regenerate the fortunes of towns and cities across the UK This text provides an accessible yet critical synthesis of urban regeneration in the UK incorporating key policies approaches issues and debates The central objective of the book is to place the historical and contemporary regeneration agenda into context Section one sets up the conceptual and policy framework for urban regeneration in the UK Section Two traces policies that have been adopted by central government to influence the social economic and physical development of cities including early municipal interventions in the late nineteenth century community focused urban policies of the late 1960s entrepreneurial property led regeneration of the 1980s and competition for urban funds in the 1990s The penultimate section illustrates the key thematic policies and strategies that have been pursued by cities themselves focusing particularly on improving economic competitiveness and tackling social disadvantage These approaches are contextualized by discussions covering for example urban competitiveness policies and the focus on sustainable urban regeneration The final section summarizes key issues and debates facing urban regeneration and speculates upon future directions Urban Regeneration in the UK blends the approaches taken by central government programmes and cities themselves in the regeneration process The latest ideas and examples from across disciplines and across the UK's urban areas are illustrated This book provides a comprehensive and up to date synthesis that will fill a significant gap in the current literature on regeneration and will be a tool for students as well as a seminal read for practitioners and researchers

Production and Use of Urban Knowledge Hans Thor Andersen, Robert Thomas Atkinson, 2013-06-13 This book provides new insights on cities and the nature of urban development and the role of knowledge management in urban growth It considers how knowledge informs policies and supports decision making and can assist in addressing the drivers of urban change The way that knowledge is produced and used in urban development is analysed with examples drawn from a range of European countries This book illustrates how the development and implementation of policies for urban areas can draw on knowledge management even as the knowledge economy itself stimulates the evolution of the city as a place of innovation and creativity Whilst knowledge grows in importance so do urban issues particularly in economic and political contexts at both European and national levels These essays explore growth in the range of knowledge available in urban contexts the ways to generate new knowledge from a wide range of stakeholders and how these can make an effective contribution to decision making processes in urban development The attractiveness of cities and surrounding areas to knowledge based forms of industry and investment and the competitiveness and performance of cities are a matter of major concern for national governments In a sense it has become too important to leave to city politicians and it is a topic requiring sustained reflection This book gives the reader a detailed understanding of the issues involved and prompts further reflections

Morgan, 2004 There is now substantial evidence that attachment to a network may be vital to maintaining a healthy lifestyle Providing an overview of the social network literature with a particular focus on the USA and Britain this illuminating volume reviews the range of social issues and concerns associated with the social network perspective

Crime, Neighborhood, and Public Housing Garth Davies, 2006 Annotation Public housing projects both in their structural design and sociodemographic make up constitute neighborhoods Informal social control theory suggests that certain social factors differentially affect a neighborhood's ability to regulate aspects of residential life including crime Public housing neighborhoods do not however exist in a vacuum they are integral parts of their surrounding environments Neighborhoods adjacent to public housing areas are likely to be affected by its proximity At the same time public housing is also reciprocally influenced by its immediate neighbors Spatial autocorrelation analysis provides evidence of spatial patterning of crime in public housing and public housing neighborhoods Generalized estimating equations reveal the presence of both outward and inward diffusion that is sometimes but not always mediated by sociostructural factors The findings suggest that policies premised on deconcentration and decentralization would reduce crime in and otherwise benefit both public housing neighborhoods and surrounding communities American Book Publishing Record ,2003 Books in Print Supplement ,2002 Environment and Planning ,2005 Publishes interdisciplinary research on issues of Government and Policy with an international perspective Committed to a broad range of policy questions not just those related to government and public policy Topics covered include nonstate agents private public collaboration and NGOs nongovernmental organisations All areas of economic social and environmental institutions and policy are included Disciplines from which papers are derived include political science planning geography economics law sociology and public administration The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2001 Journal of Planning Literature ,2000 Housing Policy Debate ,2003 Urban Redevelopment and the Emerging Community Sector Elizabeth Willson Morris,1998 Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur ,2003 The Cumulative Book Index ,1996 A world list of books in the English language Principles and Practice of Urban Planning William I.
