Recent Developments in Prophylactic Immunization Francis J. Zucker, 2012-12-06 It has been said that never in the history of human progress has a better and cheaper method of preventing illness been developed than immunization This is well illustrated by the WHO Expanded Programme on Immunization EPI which in developing countries is now preventing nearly a million deaths annually from measles pertussis and neonatal tetanus and for which there is a commitment by the WHO and UNICEF to protect all children by immunization by the end of the decade This enormous undertaking will be facilitated by the rapid advances in molecular biology and recombinant DNA technology in the understanding of immunological mechanisms and by the production and application of monoclonal antibodies so that the structure and location of important antigenic determinants or epitopes can be determined Chemical synthesis of oligopeptides has been simplified and computer programmes and X ray crystallography provide the tools for the determination of three dimensional structure of proteins so that the structure and location of important antigenic determinants or epitopes can be predicted These techniques have opened the way to the improvement of existing vaccines and to the development and production of new vaccines against infections for which vaccines are not available New vaccines under development include vaccines against hepatitis B hepatitis A malaria vaccines for typhoid cholera rota virus infection and other diarrhoeal diseases leprosy rabies the acquired immune deficiency syndrome AIDS rubella EB virus schistosomiasis and other infections These recent developments are discussed in the volume by internationally recognized experts assembled from several countries Recent Developments in Prophylactic Immunization Arie J. Zuckerman, 1989 Statistics in Clinical and Observational Vaccine Studies Jozef Nauta, 2020-03-14 This book offers an overview of the statistical methods used in clinical and observational vaccine studies Pursuing a practical rather than theoretical approach it presents a range of real world examples with SAS codes making the application of the methods straightforward This revised edition has been significantly expanded to reflect the current interest in this area It opens with two introductory chapters on the immunology of vaccines to provide readers with the necessary background knowledge It then continues with an in depth exploration of the analysis of immunogenicity data Discussed are amongst others maximum likelihood estimation for censored antibody titers ANCOVA for antibody values analysis of data of equivalence and non inferiority immunogenicity studies Other topics covered include fitting protection curves to data from vaccine efficacy studies and the analysis of vaccine safety data In addition the book features four new chapters on vaccine field studies an introductory one one on randomized vaccine efficacy studies one on observational vaccine effectiveness studies and one on the meta analysis of vaccine efficacy studies The book offers useful insights for statisticians and epidemiologists working in the pharmaceutical industry or at vaccines institutes as well as graduate students interested in pharmaceutical statistics Molecular Vaccines against Pathogens in the Post-Genomic Era Angel Alejandro Oñate, Alberto Moreno, Yanmin Wan, 2020-02-27 Development and Clinical Progress of DNA Vaccines Fred

Brown, Klaus Cichutek, James S. Robertson, 2000 DNA vaccines have progressed rapidly from the conceptual stage to the stage of clinical trials While studies in small laboratory animals have shown great promise initial reports from human studies were less encouraging Progress is being made however documented by the papers presented here This volume contains the proceedings of a meeting devoted to the latest developments in DNA vaccines from laboratory studies to clinical trials The papers written by leaders in the field focus on the current state of DNA vaccines in humans and other large animals The bulk of the studies involve DNA vaccines against HIV SIV Other promising trials make use of DNA vaccines against malaria and hepatitis B The papers inform the reader about the immune basis of this form of vaccination and about approaches being developed to increase the efficacy of DNA vaccines in humans These include the co administration of cytokines prime boost strategies optimising codon usage or the use of CpG motifs An excellent up to the minute account this volume should be read by anyone in academia or in industry involved in DNA vaccination The book will also be of great interest to clinicians involved in trials and those in the regulatory area
