James Joyce's astonishing final text Finnegans Wake 1939 is universally acknowledged to be entirely untranslatable. And yet no fewer than fifteen complete renderings of the 628 page text exist to date in twelve different languages altogether and at least ten further complete renderings have been announced as underway for publication in the early 2020s in nine different languages. Finnegans Wakes delineates for the first time in any language the international history of these renderings and discusses the multiple issues faced by translators. The book also comments on partial and fragmentary renderings from some thirty languages altogether including such perhaps unexpected languages as Galician, Guarani, Chinese, Korean, Turkish and Irish, not to mention Latin and Ancient Egyptian. Excerpts from individual renderings are analysed in detail together with brief biographical notes on numerous individual translators. Chronicling renderings spanning multiple decades, Finnegans Wakes illustrates the capacity of Joyce's final text to generate an inexhaustible multiplicity of possible meanings among the ever increasing number of its impossible translations. Britische Literatur in der DDR Barbara Korte, 2008. Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur, 2008. MLA International Bibliography of Books and Articles on the Modern Languages and Literatures, 2008. Comparative Approaches to Nordic and European Modernisms Mats Jansson, 2008. Modernism is a truly international movement that cuts across many boundaries, territorial, political, cultural and linguistic. Its geographical and temporal scope make it one of the most prominent fields of literary study. The essays in this book compare Modernist features of the Nordic literatures with the modernizing works and movements of the rest of twentieth century Europe. The contributors situate the concept of Modernism in a pan-European context and discuss how a range of texts respond to and thus represent facets of European Modernism at widely different moments, not least in the period following the second world war. In addition to studies of individual Nordic authors, the aspects of Modernism explored here include its response to war, the relationship between verbal and pictorial art and Modernism's impact on later Nordic and European writers. Jahresberichte für deutsche Geschichte, 2005. Translation Studies Abstracts/Bibliography of Translation Studies, 2008. Bibliographie Arno Schmidt, 1949-1991 Karl-Heinz Muther, 1992. Annual Bibliography of English Language and Literature Modern Humanities Research Association, 2004. Includes both books and articles. Irish University Review, 2008. A journal of Irish studies. Acta philologica, 2012.
